O'Connor Rounding Out Ticket As Wagner Challenge Fizzles

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Frank D. O'Connor rolled toward a first-ballot nomination for governor today as the Democratic State Convention opened with token opposition in his path. The last serious threat to O'Connor's impending victory evaporated when Robert F. Wagner's belated bid to snag the nomination for himself failed to rally enough support.

With the Wagner challenge repulsed, O'Connor turned to the business of rounding out his state ticket.

Sources close to O'Connor reported he hoped to fill the two open slots on the ticket with Buffalo's Mayor Frank Sedita and Manhattan attorney William J. vanden Heuvel.

Final Decisions Tonight

Final decisions were to be made tonight after the formalities of O'Connor's nomination. O'Connor was expected to have only one opponent in the evening-session balloting—Candacequa businessman Howard J. Samuels.

Samuels Stays In

Samuels stubbornly refused to pull out of the contest despite overwhelming evidence that an easy victory was in store for the O'Connor forces.

The O'Connor triumph was nailed down—as tight as anything can be in politics—when Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia withheld his support Tuesday from the stop-O'Connor drive launched by Wagner.

There had been persistent reports that Travia had hooked up with the former New York City mayor in a last-minute effort to divert the nomination either to Wagner or himself.

But Travia told The Associated Press there was no truth to such accounts, and he predicted that O'Connor would be the nominee.

It's All Over, Travia

Persons close to Travia said the speaker would advise the approximately 60 delegates he controls in the 184-member Brooklyn delegation to join their colleagues in voting for O'Connor. The balance are to be delivered by Brooklyn leader Stanley Steingut.

"It's all over," Travia told a reporter. When apprised of the developments, Samuels said he would go down fighting. He was the last of O'Connor's publicly declared rivals still in the field.

One of the original four declared candidates, Eugene Nickerson, was assigned the role of convention keynoter.

Sources close to O'Connor said the No. 2 spot on the state ticket would go either to Sedita or Vanden Heuvel, a political intimate of U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

It was understood that O'Connor

Death Won't Change Apartheid Policy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—South Africa's ruling white Nationalist party announced its "unshakable determination" today to maintain the course set by its assassinated leader, Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

As police continued their investigation of Verwoerd's assassination, the party's parliamentary caucus met in Cape Town to approve a message of condolence on the death of their leader Tuesday.

Will Meet Next Week

The pledge to uphold his policies confirmed expectations that Verwoerd's death would mean no modification of the government's militant apartheid policy of racial segregation.

The caucus is expected to meet next week to select a new party leader who automatically will become prime minister. The party has almost a 3-1 majority in Parliament.

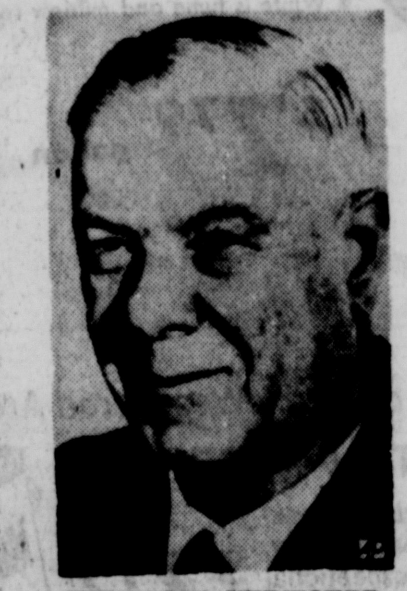

There was no announcement yet of funeral plans for Verwoerd, but Radio South Africa said he probably would be given a state funeral Friday in Pretoria, the administrative capital. The South African Press Association said the funeral probably would be held Saturday.

Following Verwoerd's assassination, Finance Minister Theophilus Dones became acting prime minister.

Dones was considered a strong contender for the premiership.

Other Possibilities

Others mentioned as possible successors are Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, a former

1,985 Registered At KHS as School Semester Starts

Thousands of children returning to classrooms today marked the end of summer fun and the beginning fall educational pursuits.

At Kingston High School an estimated 1,975 will be registered during the course of the day with returning juniors and seniors signing up this morning and incoming students this afternoon.

10,143 Over-All Estimate

The two city junior high schools expect a total of 2,299 students, 875 at Myron J. Michael School and 1,424 at J. Watson Bailey.

The overall enrollment in the Kingston Schools Consolidated is an estimated 10,143 up some 264 from last year. Approximately 5,859 will attend elementary schools in the district. This figure includes projected afternoon kindergarten registration.

At the new John A. Coleman Catholic High School on the campus of the former Academy of St. Ursula, 252 students are enrolled today. The freshman class, the first co-educational class, is made up of 45 boys and 63 girls. Seventh and eighth grades at the academy register 34 pupils.

Brydges' Talk Reveals Wheeler-Dealers Issue

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Republicans hammered hard on the theme of boss-control among Democrats today as the GOP launched its two-day nominating program in a markedly harmonious atmosphere.

State Republican Chairman Carl Spad called the convention to order at 11:40 a.m., with most of the 1,417 delegates in attendance at the War Memorial Auditorium.

The delegates, ready to chorus approval Thursday night for the renomination of Gov. Rockefeller for a third term, cheered attacks on the apparent Democratic nominee for governor—New York City Council President Frank D. O'Connor.

Leads Offensive

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, the convention's keynote speaker, led off the offensive by predicting that voters would re-elect Rockefeller Nov. 8 because they are "revolted" by the "bosses and the wheeler-dealers" in Buffalo—scene of the Democratic convention.

Brydges said the "bosses" control the Democratic Party so tightly that U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, one of the state's foremost Democrats, "has thrown up his hands and has taken a virtual walk."

Brydges' thumping speech topped convention agenda that included consideration of a 3-500-word platform—the GOP's sweeping policy statement—by the 1,417 delegates. A speech by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey loomed as the highlight of tonight's activity.

The delegates get down to the main business of the convention on Thursday when Rockefeller and his running mates will be nominated. The governor already has expressed his preference for Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson and Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz.

The ticket is expected to be rounded out with the nomination of Oneida County Executive Charles T. Lanigan as the candidate for comptroller. The office of comptroller is the only major elective post now held by a Democrat—Arthur Levitt.

Also Predicts Victory

Joining Brydges in predicting a Rockefeller victory was GOP State Chairman Carl Spad, who said in a prepared speech:

"We are outnumbered in the enrollment book by a million. We must work to win... and we will win."

Meanwhile, Rockefeller continued Tuesday night to picture himself as an underdog in the contest for governor.

Motoring into downtown Rochester after flying here from New York City, Rockefeller said the Liberal Party's decision to field its own candidate for governor for the first time in history would "neither help nor hurt" him.

About 250 persons, most of them convention delegates, greeted Rockefeller at Monroe County Airport. His arrival stirred a ripple of excitement in what was otherwise a quiet, pre-convention evening.

The governor was accompanied by his son, Steven C. Rockefeller, and his nephew, Laurence Rockefeller Jr. The governor's wife, who is expecting a child early next year, will arrive Thursday. A Rockefeller aide reported.

En route to the Sheraton Hotel, where most of the ranking Republicans are staying, Rockefeller stopped to greet residents

25 Go With Wilson to GOP Meet

Today the Ulster County delegation to the 1966 Republican State Convention will be on its way to Rochester headed by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, county chairman. Besides Assemblyman Wilson, who is also a member of the Republican State Executive Committee, the party's top policy-making group, several other county Republicans will be playing important roles in this year's GOP Convention.

Assigned Role

According to Chairman Wilson, Supervisor Charles Relyea of Hurley, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, will be the honorary vice president of the convention; Mrs. Raymond R. LeFever of Bloomington, vice chairman of the county committee, will serve as a member of the convention's committee on permanent organization; Supervisor Peter J. Savano of New Paltz, majority leader of the Board of Supervisors, has been selected to serve on the Republican Platform Committee.

At the Republican State Convention in Rochester, the delegates will name the party's 1966 candidates for governor, lieutenant-governor, comptroller, and attorney general, as well as the 15 Republican delegates-at-large to the 1967 Constitutional Convention. New Paltz's choice as the candidate for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals. Delegates also will have the duty of drawing up the Republican Party's platform for the 1966 campaign.

Other delegates who will attend the convention from Ulster County include: Sherwood E. Davis of Kingston, Supervisor Ben J. Williams of Saugerties, Ben J. Slutsky of Ellenville, John B. Sterley of Kingston, Lawrence A. Quilty of Kingston, John A. Klein of Plattekill, William A. Coy of Clintondale, County Clerk Lawrence D. Craft of Ellenville and John R. Mayone of Kingston.

List Alternates

The alternate delegates to the state convention will include: Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz of Ulster, John Foglia of Milton, Edward T. Feeney of Kingston, Philip H. Davis of Kerhonkson, Thomas W. Roach of New Paltz, John L. Smith of High Falls, William B. Fairley of Kingston, Supervisor Harold W. Aiken of Denning, Theodore Wright of Gardiner, Mrs. LeRoy V. Crosswell of Shokan, Supervisor Joseph Martorana of Plattekill, Supervisor Douglas V. Dye of Kingston and Supervisor Charles E. Penney of Shawangunk.

Council Studies Tax Relief, Office Need

Proposals dealing with local action toward granting state-approved, partial tax exemption for qualified persons of the age of 65 or over, and with establishing a city law department were introduced at a Tuesday night meeting of the Common Council, which muddled far beyond the night's docket.

Another proposal emphasized the need for new voting machines and asked for a bid call. Beyond the above, vagaries of the night brought:

Confusion (again) over a measure that would make the mayor a member of the water board, dispute over traffic change proposals, another over properties to be involved in a tax sale, a claim that persons of known political connections might be ineligible for appointment to the Municipal Civil Service Commission, an objection to the attendance at a conference of the public works superintendent, and a discussion involving the availability of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and the time he is devoting to his job.

REBEL GULPS RATIONS—A Viet Cong prisoner gulps a ration tin of ham and eggs after U.S. Marines captured him in jungle east of Saigon, South Viet Nam. (AP Wirephoto)

Terrorism Spreads As Election Nears

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A rash of bombings and new intelligence reports today indicated the Communists were building up a wave of violence in the four days left before South Viet Nam's election of a constitutional assembly.

Sixteen persons have been injured in four bombing attacks in Saigon and Hue in the past 48 hours.

A woman Viet Cong agent was captured in Hue with six hand grenades. She admitted being part of a six-person terror cell and said they had orders to use their grenades on election day, Sept. 11.

A similar terror cell was broken up in Da Nang earlier this week and 50 pounds of explosives were seized. Official quarters also disclosed a captured Viet Cong document that evidently came from senior authorities in the National Liberation Front. It ordered armed attacks on vital election personnel and "all others who are forcing our people to vote."

The order directed teams to place bombs beneath and in polling places before election day—presumably timed to go off on Sunday.

Cong Document Seized

The document, marked top secret by the Viet Cong, was seized by U.S. soldiers during a sweep in the area north of Saigon several days ago.

Official sources said practically every province in South Viet Nam reported evidence of stepped up Red pressure. Armed propaganda teams were slipping nightly into countless hamlets to harangue and threaten villagers.

The Communists can bring direct or indirect pressure on almost half of the nearly five million people eligible to vote. The Reds in effect control areas where about one quarter of the people live.

This fact, coupled with the boycott of the elections by the militant Buddhist minority, makes prediction of turnout hazardous.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky warned today that the success of the elections could not be measured "on a percentage of voters."

He told a news conference that between 60 and 70 per cent would be regarded as a satisfactory turnout by the government

Small Ground Action

Ground fighting slowed to scattered small actions, but reports of Viet Cong terrorism aimed at disrupting the national elections Sunday came from several sections of the country.

U.S. Air Force, Navy and

Marine pilots flew 136 multiplane missions against North Viet Nam Tuesday, 20 short of their record. They hit oil depots, supply areas, a missile site and barges as well as the major rail lines.

The pilots bombed and strafed a 15-car train on the northeast line, destroying five box cars and damaging one and cutting the line in three places, the spokesman said.

On the northwest or Red River route, other Thunderchief pilots reported knocking out a bridge and ripping up the rails in three places.

Pilots reported bomb hits on three fuel dumps and said they damaged or destroyed 24 buildings, 16 bridges, 45 cargo barges, 13 junks and three anti-aircraft sites. Navy fliers from the aircraft carrier Intrepid reported knocking out a surface-to-air missile site eight miles southwest of the coastal city of Vinh.

Carrir Plane Downed

The U.S. command in a delayed report announced the loss of a Navy F8 Crusader Monday night. The carrier plane was shot down 50 miles south of Hanoi and the pilot is missing. It was the 362nd plane announced lost over the north and the second shot down that day.

No significant ground action was reported by American spokesmen today, but South Vietnamese headquarters reported its forces killed 74 Viet Cong in three engagements Tuesday.

In the largest, Vietnamese Rangers killed 50 Viet Cong while taking light casualties and eight miles northeast of Saigon, a spokesman said.

In another action 48 miles southwest of Saigon, Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 16 Viet Cong and capturing 28

Teri Purvis Dies, Injured Sept. 1; Is 43rd of Year

Ulster County's 43rd victim of highway fatalities for 1966 is Miss Teri Purvis, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Purvis of 24 Catskill Avenue, Town of Ulster, who died at 8:20 p. m. Tuesday at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Miss Purvis had been in a coma since she was gravely injured early last Thursday morning, when her car went out of control in dense fog and crashed into a rock ledge on the west side of Route 9W north of the Highland State Police substation.

Survived January Fatal

The young woman had survived a head-on, two-car collision which occurred last Jan. 9 on Route 9W at West Park, which claimed the lives of two men and their wives, all residents of Bedford, Westchester County.

The 43rd highway fatality in 1966 occurred on Nov. 11 on Route 214 near Phoenixia. The victim was Daniel Malone, 29, of that community, whose car went out of control and crashed into a tree along the highway.

According to statistics recorded by The Freeman, the total traffic death toll for 1965 was 56. The toll for the entire year of 1964 was 42.

According to Highland troopers, Miss Purvis was driving her car north on Route 9W at about 12:20 a. m. on Sept. 1, when she

Esopus Family to Get Award For Son Killed in Viet Nam

A 19-year-old Esopus Marine, who died on March 17 smothering an enemy hand grenade with his own body to save the life of a foxhole mate southwest of Da Nang, Viet Nam, will be honored posthumously Thursday at 2 p. m. at ceremonies at the Esopus Post Office.

Mr. and Mrs. David E. Reilly of Esopus will accept the Purple Heart award for their late son Pfc. James R. Reilly, who gave his life in battle to save the life of a buddy.

Marine Major Bruce Shore will make the presentation for the U. S. Marine Corps, according to Staff Sergeant Clifford Claypool of the Kingston Marine offices.

On June 1, Marine Reilly posthumously received one of the highest decorations of the State of New York at a medal presentation ceremony for heroism in saving the life of a foxhole buddy, Pfc. Edward E. Burgess, 20, of Portland, Ore., in Viet Nam. "For valor above and beyond the call of duty," Mrs. David Reilly received for her young son, the New York State Conspicuous Service Cross in the name of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the State of New York.

Award was made at the County Office Building by Charles L. Culver, New York State Veteran Counselor and John B. Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

Death came to the young Marine only two or three days after he joined the gun team although he had been in the Marines since March 29, 1963.

Reilly was on duty in a machine gun foxhole on March 17, serving with A Platoon of G Company of the Regiment 15 miles southwest of Da Nang. Pfc. Burgess went on watch to relieve Reilly. "Reilly said he couldn't sleep and would stay around and talk for a while," Burgess later told officials. "We were sitting on the upper half of a split level hole when Reilly yelled 'My God! Burgess, get down in the hole. It's a grenade.'"

Burgess said he fell down. "I thought Reilly would follow but he dived toward the grenade and must have landed right on it," Burgess said. "It seemed it took a long time to go off, then it exploded. He saved my life."

Gotham Telethon Raises $5,533.26 For Area MD Fund

The treasurer of the Ulster County Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association said today that a total of $5,533.26 has been raised as a result of a weekend telethon from New York City.

Ken E. Osterhoudt, the treasurer, noted that the county goal was $10,000 but that the results were incomplete. Nationwide, the campaign was very successful with a report of $965,000 contributed as of yesterday afternoon. The national goal was one million dollars.

The telethon, which appeared on channel 5 in New York, started Sunday at 10 p. m. and ran for 20 hours. Jerry Lewis, well-known stage, screen, and television personality, was the toastmaster. He announced shortly after the end of the telethon that it would be the last one he would do because of the demands on his health.

Osterhoudt and his team also put in a hard campaign from the Roundout National Bank in Woodstock. According to Osterhoudt, the workers got to the bank at 7 p. m. Sunday and didn't quit until 2:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Among the many workers at the bank for the drive were County President of the Muscular Dystrophy Chapter John Collins. Mrs. Collins was also there. Others included Vice-President Hugh Greer and Secretary Philip Greer. Osterhoudt said a complete list of workers would be published later.

Premieres Fail To Add Much to TV Enjoyment

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Three half-hour comedy series had their premiere shows on ABC Tuesday night. About all they had in common was the network — and very loud laugh tracks on two of them.

First there was "The Rounders," a broad Western rib-tickler about two cowboys, their boss and an engaging horse which can sit down on its hind legs. The horse may wind up as the star of the show.

Chill Wills plays a rich ranch owner with larceny in his heart and a "Beverly Hillsbillies" turn of phrase. His victims were the cowboys, played by Ron Hayes and Patrick Wayne, John's son. Wayne's acting was confined to smiling broadly and repeating, "Whatever suits you just tickles me plumb to death."

The plot involved some nonsense about trying to sell the sit-down horse to a rodeo as a bucking bronc. Maybe the series will tickle the youngsters in the audience, since a lot of people trip or are thrown into mud puddles.

Then followed "The Pruitts of Southampton," which may just make the residents of Southampton start petitions. The first show was under the handicap of having to introduce a kooky society family and explain how they suddenly discovered they were impoverished. This set the scene for future shows.

Phyllis Diller, in relatively conservative clothes, plays a woman of such sheltered background that she tried to roast a turkey in a washing machine, which also suggests the caliber of the gags.

Third candidate for public approval was "Love on a Roof-top," which has the advantage of two very attractive young people, Judy Carne and Peter Deuel, playing the leads. They portray a young couple trying to live on his $85-a-week salary.

This show, too, was extremely busy setting the situation, getting them married and installed in a windowless flat. Then came a visit from the wife's parents and some stuff about furnishing the place with borrowed furniture.

The stars were vivacious and convincing. The settings were handsome, including some stunning shots of San Francisco. But the writing has a way to go.

In an extraordinary exercise of programming judgment, the network preceded the three new shows with an hour-long cartoon show called "King Kong."

Unlike the old Kong of the horror film, the cartoon ape is enormous but friendly and lovable. His best friend is a boy about one third the size of one of the ape's fingers. The show will appear in half-hour form on Saturdays this season.

The first night of ABC's "Advance Premieres" failed to add up to much entertainment. Maybe things will improve as the week continues.

Tonight the network launches "The Monroes," at 8 p.m. EDT, an hour show about five orphans, the oldest 18, and their adventures in the Wyoming territory of the post-Civil War period. It will be followed from 9-9:30 by "The Man Who Never Was," a series about a World War II spy for the United States who assumes the identity of a rich playboy. Robert Lansing plays the lead in the series filmed in Europe. At 10 p.m., there will be an hour-long special, "The Fine Art of Football Watching."

1850 Biography Of Ex-Slave Is Given for Room

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two articles about a special collection of literature which will be housed in the Sojourner Truth room at Prince George's County Memorial Library, near Hyattsville, Md. The first article, published in The Freeman last week, noted that the room, named after a slave who made history and who was born here in Ulster County in 1797, is attracting nationwide attention, although it will not be officially opened for some months. The Sojourner Truth room will eventually house a special 1,600 volume collection of literature on the history, accomplishments and problems of Negroes in America from slave days to the civil rights movement of this decade. Letters-to-the-editor in many places throughout the eastern United States, written by the library, have augmented these books with a wealth of material dealing with the crusading woman for whom the room will be named.)

In its nationwide search for materials for a special collection of literature on the American Negro, the Prince George's County Memorial Library has uncovered and received as a gift a copy of Sojourner Truth's Narrative and Book of Life.

First published in 1850, the book is a biography of the famous ex-slave evangelist who crusaded for women's rights and Negro freedom in the mid-19th century. The book was given by Miss Sarah L. Yarnall of Philadelphia, Pa., who wrote, "Your announcement in the Friends Journal of July 1, was very welcome to me. I have a book on Sojourner Truth for which I have wanted to find a suitable home. This book belonged to my grandmother . . . I shall be most happy to have it reside in your Memorial Library. I think the idea of such a collection and of honoring Sojourner Truth is admirable."

The Negro history collection will be housed in the Sojourner Truth Room of the new Oxon Hill Branch Library, which is being built on the site of the former Sojourner Truth Elementary School on Oxon Hill Road. The branch is scheduled for opening after the first of the year, according to Miss Elizabeth B. Hage, County Library Director.

Responses to a plea for information and material on Sojourner Truth came from all over the United States.

From Barnesville, O., a gentleman, born in 1876, wrote promising to send another copy of the "Narrative." From California, a Quaker lady of 90 had written two letters with information about Sojourner. From Albion, Mich., the local branch of the National Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc. sent a program and clippings describing an original play about the life of the famous evangelist presented earlier this year when the local Sojourner Truth award was given.

Letters have come from a woman in Battle Creek, Mich., who has spent years collecting mementoes and reminiscences of Sojourner Truth. Also from Battle Creek came a news clipping and picture of her tombstone on which are chiseled the words "Is God Dead?" The news story said in part: "Is God Dead? The question was not born in the 20th century. It is chiseled in stone right here in Battle Creek as it was asked more than 100 years ago by Sojourner Truth."

picture of the architect's sketch of the Oxon Hill branch library and a description of its special collection room.

From the Smithsonian Institution this week the library received a photograph of a statue titled Libyan Sybil, executed in Italy by William Wetmore Story in 1868 and inspired by a reading by Harriet Beecher Stowe of her impressions of Sojourner Truth, which had been published in the April 1863 Atlantic Monthly. The Smithsonian acquired the statue from the Henry Cabot Lodge estate.

Teachers Are Warned On Abuse of Power

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state education commissioner warns teachers against "abuse of power" through the influence they have gained outside the classroom as schools prepare to open for a record influx of pupils.

In his annual letter to teachers, Allen described teacher participation in the "consideration of policies and practices of the particular school system" as "all to the good."

"But influence is power, and power brings with it the possibility of the abuse of power," he said Tuesday.

At the same time, Allen assured the teachers that they were "the heart of the educational process."

A total 4,170,000 children were expected to enter public and private schools in New York State this week, an increase of 86,000 over 1965.

The State Education Department reported Tuesday that total public school enrollment was 3,250,000, an increase of 73,000 over last year.

Non-public school enrollment was set at 920,000, a 13,000 increase.

Javits, Keating Head GOP Slate For '67 Meeting

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits and former Sen. Kenneth B. Keating head a slate of 15 candidates for delegate - at - large to the 1967 Constitutional Convention.

The Republican high command selected the slate Tuesday for presentation to the convention Wednesday evening in War Memorial Auditorium. Secretary of State John P. Lorenzo of Rochester planned to place the names in nomination as a complete slate.

Clash Could Result
If the Democrats, meeting concurrently in Buffalo, decide to head their list of delegates with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the choices could precipitate a head-on clash between Javits, the state's senior senator, and Kennedy, the junior senator, in the Nov. 8 election.

Others on the Republican list: Frank C. Moore of Albany, former lieutenant governor and former state comptroller. Mayor William E. Walsh of Syracuse.

J. Lee Rankin of New York City, corporation counsel of the city of New York; former solicitor general and assistant attorney general of the United States during the Eisenhower administration.

Amory Houghton of Corning, formerly ambassador to France in the Eisenhower administration; honorary chairman of the board of the Corning Glass Co. Mrs. John Groff of Great Neck, Nassau County, immediate past president of the New York State Association for the Help of Retarded Children.

Santiago Grevi of New York City, a member of the State Narcotics Control Commission. State Sen. Edward A. Speno of East Meadow, Nassau County Republican leader.

Others on List
Mrs. Romine Foster of Pittsford, Monroe County, president of the New York State Parent-teacher Association.

WAR THAT ISN'T WAR

In any barbershop discussion of Viet Nam, someone invariably takes the stand that we should either declare war on the Communists and do the job right or get out. Either we are at war or we aren't at war.

This thinking is shared by many Americans, along with misgivings that the President has wilfully bent the Constitution to involve this country in a situation that is a war in everything but name.

An expert with the Hoover Institution on War, Peace and Revolution at Stanford University answers both contentions with what seem like convincing arguments.

Formal declaration of war in Viet Nam would be politically and strategically unwise, says Stefan Possony. Such a step would be as much an escalation of the conflict as the use of nuclear weapons, he believes.

A formal declaration "would render far more difficult, if not preclude, negotiations aimed at . . . compromise solutions. It might also set in motion alliance treaties on the hostile side."

There is also the question of whom we should declare war on. Technically, he says, "a declaration of war can only be served on a state. The United States cannot possibly declare war on the Viet Cong because they have no international standing."

This is not the first time the United States has been involved in "nonwar hostilities." Between 1793 and 1801, there was undeclared war between us and France. Even in the Civil War, Congress was unable to declare war on the rebelling states.

In all, nearly 200 military actions have been ordered by American presidents without the benefit of a congressional declaration of war.

Since the Constitution has no criteria for distinguishing between a war and a military action, as a practical matter all the President needs is congressional support, says Possony.

This he has had in various ways—approval of military budgets, the Gulf of Tonkin resolution and Senate ratification of treaties directly or indirectly committing the United States to defend South Viet Nam against aggression.

Barbershop discussions notwithstanding, "Mr. Johnson's War" is also Mr. Congressman's war. And both are ultimately answerable to the wishes of the people.

THE COMEBACK TRAIL

It is noteworthy that quite a few Republicans who lost House seats in 1964 are on the comeback trail. About a dozen of the 20 or so in this category are well over on the conservative side of the GOP pasture. And most of those trying a comeback will be running against the very Democrats who unseated them.

The would-be comebackers have the advantage, for whatever it is worth, of the voters' traditional habit of giving the party out of power a boost in off-year elections. They can also note that in most cases they lost out to their Democratic opponents in 1964 by narrow margins. Some nip-and-tuck battles thus seem assured.

The mid-year races are not often a reliable indicator of what is in store in the next presidential contest. But this time around the fate of conservative GOPs trying to get back House seats they lost only two years ago may provide some hints as to how the tug-of-war between right and left is going.

HIGHWAY SYSTEM MOVES

The cost of the 40,000-mile interstate system of expressways keeps growing. Congress keeps coming up against the fact that estimates lag behind actuality.

This is the case again this year, as Congress authorizes grants to states to carry on this mammoth undertaking during the next five years. Even the billions approved will not be enough to complete the interstate system. It also is apparent that the project is not going to be finished on schedule in 1972. The completion date will be put off at least to 1973, and possibly later.

KEEPING READY FOR THE BREAKS

Frankford, West Germany—This, in a way, is a "guest column." My son Chris has been studying in West Germany this summer, working for college credits on the subject of German unification. He finds the topic enormously frustrating, something like dealing with the old question in physics of what will happen when an irresistible force collides with an immovable object. But it has led him to all sorts of people, not the least interesting of whom are the members of something called Kuratorium Unteilbares Deutschland, or Organization for Germany Indivisible.

This is an organization that hopes, ultimately, to affect politics by being non-political. It begins with the recognition that there can be no "one Germany" on a political level within foreseeable time. For a moment, a few years back, there was a glimmering on the horizon: Khrushchev's son-in-law, editor Adzhubei opened some sort of conversation during a visit to the West about a possible "ransom" of East Germany for money that would have helped the Soviets in their economic difficulties. But the shadowy proposition, which had something to do with Khrushchev's downfall, came to nothing. So the stalemate on reunification resumed its sway. Spade-bearded Ulbricht, the puppet Communist boss of East Germany, is for reunification, but only at the price of recognition for his regime and the establishment of a Communist foothold in West Germany. The Bonn government wants a plebiscite, which assuredly would vote for reunification in freedom. It is a question of compromising the uncompromisable, which is like squaring the circle.

In this "impossible" situation the Kuratorium Unteilbares Deutschland, or Organization for Germany Indivisible, tries paradoxically to cultivate the "art of the possible." It speaks of a "referendum of hearts." Its chairman, Dr. Wilhelm Wolfgang Schultz, talks about by-passing politics to work for cultural, educational and trade cooperation between the two divisions of Germany. The immediate Schutz aims are to establish full freedom of travel between the eastern and western zones, to eliminate postal service restrictions, to stop the jamming of radio broadcasts, to remove the guard towers, road blocks and barbed wire entanglements along the borders, to make "local agreements" wherever the dividing line runs across villages, farms and properties, and to let orchestras and theatrical troupes give performances where they please. These are good things to talk about.

To keep the flame of desire for reunification alive, Germany Indivisible organizes trips for visitors from West Germany to view the wall in Berlin from the western side. It brings groups of teachers to the villages of the zonal borders so that they can speak of the effects of division from first-hand knowledge. The technique of exposure is similar to that of the various Friends of the United Nations who bring those bus loads of high school students to watch the deliberations at the UN building in New York. And it is bound in the nature of things to have its effect.

Naturally the whole business of "by-passing politics" is itself a preparation for future politics. You can't look at the monster of the wall in Berlin without having a political emotion. Moreover, if there were free travel from the East Zone to the West, how long would the East German regime be able to stand the comparison? The official handbook of statistics which Chris bought in an East Berlin bookstore tells a stark story when it is stacked up against western statistics. The East German gets about a fourth of the butter that is consumed by an average person in America. For every hundred East German households there are 22 refrigerators. Automobiles sell for a minimum of $3,000 as compared to $1,000 in Western Europe. There are only seven cars in East Germany for every hundred households.

This sort of thing offers good soil for the Organization for Germany Indivisible to work. Unfortunately, German Indivisible lacks contacts with the East. Hence, like so many groups in the contemporary world, it is talking to itself, keeping up its own morale. But history is incalculable, and the organization with good morale is always ready for the breaks.

THE WELL CHILD

Thrush Infection Perilous But Easily Controllable

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Thrush, a disease of the mouth often seen in the newborn, is caused by a fungus (Candida albicans). Since this same organism may cause vaginitis, the infant may acquire the disease as he passes through the birth canal. Although the disease is not serious in older children, it may make nursing uncomfortable for the newborn and thus interfere with his early development. For this reason it should be treated promptly.

Since the fungus may be found in the atmosphere, an infant may acquire the infection from contaminated air or nipples. Older children may harbor the fungus in their mouths and show no signs of the disease unless they are suffering from malnutrition or unless treatment with antibiotics has killed off other harmless organisms and left them a clear field.

The disease causes the formation of white patches on the tongue or the mucous lining of the mouth. If the white "scum" is rubbed off (often a difficult procedure), the underlying surface is inflamed and may bleed.

The infection usually responds readily to a variety of remedies. Benzalkonium chloride (Zephiran or a one per cent solution of gentian violet applied two or three times is usually all that is needed. If the disease is resistant to these measures, nystatin, Tetrax-F (a combination of tetracycline and nystatin) or Gly-Oxide may be used. The best procedure, however, is proper disinfection of anything a baby puts into his mouth during his first few or six months of life.

Q—Many young mothers carry or wheel their babies with the babies' eyes open and exposed to the sun. Isn't this likely to damage the infant's vision?

A—Fortunately the direct rays of the sun will cause an infant to close his eyes and turn his head away, so it is not likely that he would incur any serious damage to his vision. Nevertheless, I believe it is wise to be on the safe side and shade an infant's eyes from the sun.

Q—What would cause a 2½-year-old child to drool constantly even though he is through teething?

A—Chronic inflammation of the gums or tonsils, mercury poisoning (usually from calomel), cretinism and cerebral palsy are the most common causes.

Please send your question and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Yet when all this has been said it can also be said that we are nearing the end of a momentous program in the public interest. For all its shortcomings, for all the corruption and ineptitude disclosed from time to time, the highway system is one of the world's greatest public works achievements. The nation is vastly better off than it would have been without this massive improvement in auto transportation.

"Anything You Can Do, I Can Do Better!"

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Republican party seems on the way to repeating, in some measure, an old pattern — here and there picking weak candidates for top office just when the outlook for a sizable upturn looks bright.

Some party professionals will acknowledge privately that over the years this unhappy circumstance has cost the GOP many governorships and Senate and House seats which were either in their hands or ripe for the picking.

Consequently, the professionals were upset early this summer when Minnesota Republican chose as their governor nominee one Harold Levander, widely viewed as the faintest of several prospects. Independent appraisers think his nomination sharply revives hopes of the badly riven Minnesota Democrats.

They hold to this judgment even if the badly battered Gov. Karl Rolvaag should beat out Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Keith in the Sept. 13 primary. Keith was named over Rolvaag in a stormy convention in June.

The situation in Idaho is perhaps even more to the point. By an astonishing 62-38 margin, Republican voters named a colorless state legislator, Don Samuelson, to be their 1966 governor nominee in place of three-term Gov. Robert Smylie.

Smylie obviously had come to the end of the road. But he also was given a hefty shove by vengeful Goldwaterites who sought his downfall at all costs. In their book he is an enemy moderate.

What causes concern in national GOP circles is that they put their chips on a candidate whose political salability they themselves appear to doubt.

One month after his whooping victory, Samuelson is getting no real build-up at all. During the primary, he shunned television and seldom advised the press where he would be campaigning. He is hardly more than a shadow figure.

Suddenly, too, the Republican waters in Idaho have been rolled even more. State Sen. Perry Swisher of Pocatello has announced his governorship candidacy as an independent Republican.

On the likely assumption he gets the 1,000 signatures needed to give him a place on the ballot, Swisher could become a major factor in the race. His next hurdles will be money and organization.

If he clears those, the judgment of Idahoans queried from here is that he may pull substantially both from Samuelson and the Democrat nominee, Charles Herndon.

The question, of course, is who he will hurt most. One veteran Idaho onlooker thinks Samuelson will be the worst sufferer, but this view is by no means general.

At a recent meeting, Idaho's AFL-CIO refused to endorse Herndon and almost backed Swisher, a labor favorite. Labor leaders may yet swing behind him, as some local councils already have done. Naturally, labor defections from Herndon would do him no good.

Swisher, a GOP progressive who was state Senate architect of Idaho's controversial three per cent sales tax (up for referendum vote Nov. 8), also could pull support from sales tax advocates and teachers, who see that revenue as vital to educational expansion. This backing would otherwise appear to be Herndon's, since Samuelson voted against the tax and against various education and welfare bills.

On the other hand, Swisher may draw many GOP moderates, though some would not risk credentials as "regulars" by acting openly.

Moreover, his mere presence in the race will serve, in the view of some Idahoans, to underscore Samuelson's ultra-conservative outlook and his singular lack of color and drive.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Remember the olden days, when a street light was out, the truck would go by and repair it the same night. The walking patrolman would report it, as a rule. That is all history in Kingston in this year of 1966 efficiency. You can go through the streets of Kingston or up Broadway and can count many street lights out, even in front of the City Hall or other prominent place, and they stay out.

I see an item in the Friday, Sept. 2, 1966 Freeman on the bottom of page 12 that there is need for replacement of some of these city street lights, and that first replacements will be made on Broadway and Main Streets when they are able to get the money to do it.

When one or two opposite lights are out it makes the entire block dark. It is bad enough that we are having buildings and houses taken down, but a blackout on top of it makes one wonder if it wouldn't be better for all of us to move out entirely. Notice how everyone wants to move to the well lit blocks, below the library. It is the stores which light that section, and the various businesses.

I understand that these iron poles with our street lights belong to Kingston, and in charge of the Board of Public Works, but the bulbs are changed by the Central Hudson, or something to that effect. Kingston pays the light bill, for all the lights to be on at the proper hours. These

Still on LBJ's Back

De Gaulle Concern for Viet Seems Unreal, Belies Record

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—French President Charles de Gaulle must like it on President Johnson's back. He keeps climbing up on it, until Johnson brushes him off, which is what just happened again.

Once more De Gaulle came up with a suggestion for ending the war in Viet Nam, and Johnson once more promptly rejected it. In view of his own record and French history, De Gaulle's solicitude for Viet Nam is a little two-faced.

De Gaulle Was Head

De Gaulle was president after World War II when the Vietnamese, sick of French rule for three-quarters of a century, sought independence. French forces went in to crush them.

The war that followed lasted until 1954 when the French were crushed and driven out. Last week De Gaulle suggested what he had proposed before, with a little variation. He had made his first suggestion to the President when Johnson had been in the White House less than three months.

At that time — Jan. 31, 1964 — De Gaulle suggested to a huge news conference that all Viet Nam be neutralized, with the cooperation of Red China. Just four days before he had officially recognized the Red Chinese as the legitimate government of China, over American protests.

Held News Conference

Johnson held his first presidential news conference the next day, Feb. 1, 1964. His answer to De Gaulle was no. He said the American attitude would be different "if we could expect the Viet Cong to let their neighbors live in peace."

Last Thursday De Gaulle came back to the same theme, taking a dig at the United States along the way by implying this country was an invader.

He said: "There is no chance the people of Asia will subject themselves to the law of the foreigner whatever his interests." Once more he proposed neutralizing the two Viet Nams.

But he added this: Before there could be a neutrality agreement, the United States would have to promise to pull its troops out. He didn't say the North Vietnamese Reds would have to pull their troops out of South Viet Nam. This angered the Johnson administration, in addition to De Gaulle's butting in.

More Subtle

This time the Frenchman tried to be a little more subtle. Instead of saying outright the Red Chinese would have to be a part of any neutrality agreement, he said it obliquely without mentioning Red China by name.

He did it this way. He said the five "world powers" would have to be part of any agreement assuring Viet Nam's neutrality. Red China is certainly one of the big five. Johnson turned down this proposition, too.

The President, on a political trip into the Midwest Labor Day, said American troops would come home "as soon as that vicious aggression stops." He had no reason for wanting Red China involved in keeping peace in Viet Nam.

Just last week the Red Chinese were calling for anti-American uprisings around the world while the United States was involved in Viet Nam, the idea being to weaken the United States until it collapsed.

Has Been Troublesome

De Gaulle, who has been skeptical about the reliability of this country in helping an ally, has been a troublesome ally himself. Most recently he badly weakened the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Some of his other antics, which are many and may in the history books cause him to be pictured as an international eccentric.

He rejected American proposals for a multinational NATO nuclear force; complained American nuclear power would remain exclusively under U.S. control; built his own atomic arsenal; slammed the common market door in Britain's face.

It seems to me almost unbelievable that the police force of one of our major cities is literally frightened to death to ask the prime suspect a single question for fear that their case might be jeopardized.

—Author Truman Capote, on the Supreme Court decisions.

We're going to have a good, strong, exciting team if he is here or not.

—Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns, commenting on the retirement of Jimmy Brown.

Timely Quotes

The origin of the word "tweed" has no connection with the Tweed River in Scotland. In 1826, a London clerk when writing out an invoice for goods mistakenly wrote "tweeds" instead of "tweels." "Tweels" is Scottish for the word "twills," a certain type of woven fabric with a twill weave.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have three pairs of stretch pants and ruined one pair when I tried to press them. . . I guess I used too hot an iron. Should they be steam ironed or dry ironed, what temperature, and so forth?

Corrinne Blake

Dear Corinne:

We have contacted Miss Edna Schappert, the Educational Director of Man-Made Fiber Producers Association, Inc., and here are her instructions: "Stretch garments can be pressed with either a dry or steam iron at temperatures in the range of 270°-300° F. (SYNTHETIC setting). Trials should be made on a sample to establish the maximum for a particular fabric.

"Press rapidly. Do not leave the iron in one position too long.

"If hotter iron is required for any reason, use pressing cloth and do not allow the iron to come in contact with the fabric.

"Care-and-handling directions on hangtags and labels should, of course, be followed."

Can you imagine anyone being so nice to take the time to give this information for us housewives?

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

How in the world can one small white facial tissue go into so many hundred shreds in an automatic washer when it accidentally goes through the full washing cycle in a batch of colored clothes?

What a revolting development that is on a busy day!

Lila Raihala

Dear Heloise:

Instead of killing insects on walls and leaving a spot, try using adhesive-backed tape.

Just touch the little beast with the sticky side and he can be removed without marking the walls. This, of course, applies to the slower-moving insects.

By folding the tape over, the insects cannot get away.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

Dear Heloise:

We had trouble with the controls on electric blankets. I couldn't anchor them in a convenient place, so I proceeded to think Heloise-style, and figured it out.

The controls had hooks to hang over the bed, but wouldn't fit our headboard.

We bought small drawer handles that almost matched the drawer handles on our bedside tables. I put them on the side of our night tables and hung the controls on them.

Now the controls are much easier to operate and see. Also, they look nice, without harming the tables.

Dear Heloise:

I discovered a quick and easy way to wash my little figurines and whatnots.

I use those little cotton tipped sticks—either homemade or purchased.

I also use them for cleaning my glass frogs that get so dirty. For years, I spent many hours trying to clean the frogs, until I finally thought of the swabs and found them a real timesaver.

In answer to a question from one of your readers concerning additional uses for a punch bowl, I have used my glass bowl successfully as a salad bowl for a large tossed salad.

I have also used it to serve those wonderful low-calorie raw vegetables as hors d'oeuvres.

It makes a very colorful display, with celery, radishes, carrot curls, olives, cauliflowerettes, etc., placed over a mound of ice in the bowl, each adding its own bit of interest and color.

Estelle Barton

Dear Heloise:

Here is how to repair a table, stool, chair, or any piece of furniture if a leg has come loose.

After taking the leg off, cut a piece of cheesecloth a little larger than the size of the hole and put good glue on the cloth. Place it over the end of the leg which fits in the hole and push the leg back into the hole.

You will find that the glue and cheesecloth form a BOND which will hold the leg more firmly.

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The two hottest things this year have been the weather and the economy, and there is a good chance that neither will cool much until fall.

Temperatures can be forecast closely and measured exactly. But what happens when Washington blows coolants on the economy? Its not nearly as precise.

Inflation is a pickpocket. President Johnson says, but a recession resulting from too much anti-inflation would be a housebreaker.

The economy has been booming now for six years and its fever is measured in the highest interest rates in 40 or 45 years. As some economists view it, the nation is demanding too much from its body, perhaps pushing itself beyond its ability to fulfill its wishes.

Should demand be cooled? How? By high interest rates, taxes, less government spending? And how should the medicine be measured out when you consider that an overdose could provoke a recession?

The burden of slowing demand so far has been on interest rates — monetary policy — and much of the banking community is angry. Few people like high interest for long. The banks of course get more for their money but they pay more, too. They feel the government should cut spending and perhaps increase taxes. In other

Rep. King to Leave Hospital This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carleton King, R-N.Y., who encountered a series of complications following an operation for kidney stones 10 weeks ago, will be released from Bethesda Naval Hospital later this week.

Among the complications was the discovery that a sponge used during surgery had not been removed. A spokesman said another operation was required to extract the sponge.

Surgeons found the kidney stone to be impacted. Efforts to dislodge it with a catheter, a flexible tube, failed, and the entire left kidney eventually was removed.

words, use fiscal policy as a coolant.

The administration, naturally, has been slow to move in this election year.

First, there is a dangerous time lag between application of restraints and the time they take effect. Some of the Federal policies of many months ago, for example, are just now cutting into demand.

Secondly, there is much disagreement among the experts on the potential effect of any measure.

Proof that the same figures mean different things are the economic predictions of last December, supposedly scientifically arrived at and now being revised — scientifically.

Focus on this variety of interpretation came this week from the First National City Bank, the third largest in the nation, which broke ranks with much of the banking fraternity and suggested that perhaps we've been misreading the economic signs.

Maybe demand is not excessive, the bank said. Perhaps inflation can be checked by encouraging productivity growth rather than by checking demand too harshly.

Raising personal income taxes again — on top of higher Social Security and state and local taxes — would reduce the incentives for work while whetting demands for higher wages," it said.

"There is a danger," it cautioned, "to over-reacting to increases in widely publicized indexes." Perhaps, it suggested, we should stop bickering over the economic pie and simply bake a bigger one.

Rooney Admits

Recovery Not Complete Yet From 'Tragedy'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney is hard at work in the profession he has known for nearly all of his 45 years. But he admits that he has not yet recovered from what he refers to as "the tragedy."

It took place last January 31 when his fifth wife was slain by a rival for her affections, a would-be actor from Yugoslavia, who then took his own life. She had been mother of four of Rooney's children.

Rooney has been working almost continuously since. Recently he returned from filmmaking in Italy and reported for television assignment. "I will be seen on CBS next week on the opening shows of both Jean Arthur, Monday, and Red Skelton, Tuesday.

Last week Rooney was functioning in another guise: as director of the Jean Arthur show. A craftsman who has learned every nuance of comic invention, he supplanted guest star Wally Cox in rehearsing a scene with Miss Arthur that drew guffaws from the film crew.

Rooney retired to a nearby dressing room on the Universal lot and talked about directing, which is not an entirely new experience for him.

"This is my first directing in television, but I did direct a movie at Columbia a few years back," he said. "Let's face it — I've also done a lot of directing that I never got credit for. Every actor has to."

The Rooney etouille was lacking, but not his enthusiasm for work.

He had been in Italy filming "The Devil in Love" with Vittorio Gassman — "I play his sidekick, a sort of aging Puck," cracked Rooney, who played the Shakespearean sprite in Warner Brothers' all-star "Midsummer Night's Dream" in 1935. He leaves this month for a night club date in Australia, then returns for more films and TV.

Report UPS Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A wildcat teamster strike today halted package deliveries by the United Parcel Service to the city and Suffolk, Nassau, Westchester and Putnam Counties.

The walkout began one week ago among men of Teamsters Local 804 and spread until it affected nearly all of the 3,700 service drivers. Deliveries of virtually all large department stores were curtailed Tuesday.

The strike was touched off when an impartial arbitrator upheld the company in the firing of two men. The drivers contended that one of the men was dismissed over a bookmaking charge, later dropped in court.

A company spokesman denied the bookmaking charge was the reason for the man's dismissal. The dispute was compounded over the holiday weekend when the company sent telegrams to 11 shop stewards, warning them they would be dismissed if they failed to report for work Tuesday.

Court to Hear Appeal on GE Bargaining Edict

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals today hears the General Electric Co.'s appeal from a judge's order that the company must bargain with a team headed by the AFL-CIO International Union of Electric Workers (IUE) and including representatives of several other unions.

GE and the IUE filed briefs in the court Tuesday in connection with the ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Marvin Frankel.

On Aug. 25 Judge Sterry R. Waterman of the Court of Appeals denied GE a stay of Frankel's order. Waterman, a resident of St. Johnsbury, Vt., sat at Montpelier, Vt.

The case went before Frankel after the IUE complained to the National Labor Relations Board that GE's refusal last May to bargain with a multiunion committee was an unfair labor practice. Still pending before the NLRB is a final hearing on IUE's complaint.

The company calls the union team a "coalition" committee. The unions call it a "coordinated negotiations approach designed to counter company tactics."

Since Aug. 23 the company has been negotiating "under protest" with the team headed by the IUE, the bargaining agent for 79,400 workers in GE plants in several states, and including representatives of several other unions with which the company has negotiated on a local basis in the past.

The IUE and GE are now bargaining on a committee level during the absence of top IUE officials attending the union's international convention in Miami Beach.

Full-scale negotiations are under way between GE and the independent United Electrical Workers (UE), which represents 12,500 of the company workers. The UE is not connected with the IUE bargaining team.

IUE and UE contracts expire at midnight Oct. 2.

Demo Platform May Bring Floor Fight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The State Democratic Party gave its gubernatorial candidate considerable maneuvering room today as the party's 1966 state platform was unveiled amid threats of a floor fight over Viet Nam.

The policy paper, as prepared by the platform advisory committee, reflected concern with broad aspects of state government but—in the words of the committee's chairman — "leaves the specifics up to the candidate."

Eye Strong Plank

Although the platform as drafted dealt only with domestic issues, a small group of liberal Democrats sought ways to introduce a strong plank dealing with the war in Viet Nam into the document.

The proposal by the foreign policy council of New York Democrats follows the same general line advanced by U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, one of the state's leading Democrats. It differs in many respects from President Johnson's current course of action in Viet Nam.

The council advocated an immediate halt to the bombing of North Viet Nam and cessation of offensive military actions by United States troops.

Other major points pressed by the council at the nominating convention's opening session included recognition of the National Liberation Front — the Viet Cong—in South Viet Nam.

The council argued that Viet Cong participation was vital to any successful peace talks.

In addition, the council, many of whose members form a so-called "reform" wing in the party's New York City camp, asked that money being spent in Viet Nam be "redirected" to "great society" and anti-poverty programs in the United States.

Predict Labeling

Party leaders said privately

the proposals would be tabled after a brief debate.

William J. Vanden Heuvel, chairman of the advisory committee, told newsmen that the platform had been developed with an eye toward allowing the party's gubernatorial candidate leeway in adopting positions.

Vanden Heuvel contended however that all of the "vital issues" concerning the state were covered in the document.

Key planks in the platform:

Constitutional revision, reorganization of the executive branch, mandatory periodic reapportionment, simplification of the court system, modernization of the legislative process, create effective home rule and clarify the state's responsibilities in education, housing, health and welfare.

The Democrats also called for a code of ethics "which effectively defines and penalizes abuses of public responsibilities and obligations through conflicts of interest."

On education, the party advocated special post-high school training in an effort to qualify more persons for college entrance; increased state aid for higher education and a move toward free tuition at all public colleges.

In addition, the platform called for a reorganization of the state Office of Economic Opportunity and more comprehensive health and medical programs.

The Democrats asked for repeal of the Condon-Wadlin Law, the statute governing labor relations among government employees — and revision of the public assistance program to provide a minimum level of assistance for the poor.

On agriculture, the party demanded a review of the distribution system and strengthening of the marketing standards to protect New York's farmers against unfair competition.

Parking Lot

Editor, The Freeman:

I see in your paper, issue of August 30, the following headline: "Senate House Parking Lot Foreclosed" State Has No Available Funds at This Time to Acquire the Lot.

How unfortunate that this is to happen. Every country, every state, every municipality is competing today for the valuable dollars that visitors and tourists are spending in their community.

The Senate House in Kingston is one of the main attractions that the city has to offer.

It could be made lots more attractive by having a small park surrounding it with walks, small trees, shrubbery and park benches instead of a parking lot. It would add more to being a beautiful historic institution, a historic site, a beautiful pearl, situated at Uptown Kingston.

I would ask Mr. St. John to hold on to this site for the time being. In the meantime civic-minded proud Kingstonians and people of Ulster County as well should start a drive to raise enough money.

Let's see if there is enough incentive to buy this lot by public subscription and turn it into a small park, "The Senate House Park."

I would be glad to start the drive off with an initial donation of $10.

I would humbly suggest the appointment of Mr. Howard St. John, a well-known public person, and also the president of the Ulster County Savings Bank, the holder of this property, as chairman for the funds to purchase this lot.

Help make beautiful Kingston more beautiful by purchasing this lot and turning it into a small public park.

Help with your pennies. Help with your dollars. Get aroused all citizens, service organizations, social groups, business people, factory people, educators and teachers.

Let's put an added attraction to an attraction. Why wait any longer.

Let's shame our Congressman and our Assemblyman in helping to reach the goal into doing something constructive for the enhancement of one of the oldest public buildings in the United States. "Citizens, let's go."

Historical Group Sets Field Trip To Cantonment

Members of Ulster County Historical Society will gather for the annual field trip Saturday, Sept. 17, at 12 noon at Pine Tree Inn, south of Marlboro, for luncheon. From there they will proceed to New Windsor Cantonment, Vail's Gate, where they will visit the "Living Museum" at 2:30 p. m. The museum has been restored and maintained by National Temple Hill Association, a local group which realized the historical significance of the camp site and began its restoration in 1933.

In furnishing background on the camp site, the Historical Society has noted that the British continued to maintain a strong army in New York City even though they had surrendered at Yorktown in 1781. This army menaced the Hudson Valley and New England. Washington, therefore, established his headquarters at Newburgh in a narrow mountainous section above the river and near the fortifications at West Point.

General Henry Knox, Chief of Artillery, and, later, General Horatio Gates, victor of the battle of Saratoga, commanded the 6,000 to 8,000 men quartered nearby at Temple Hill, which derived its name from a log community building in the camp's center, used for meetings and as a church. It was here that General George Washington made an eloquent speech to his weary troops on March 15, 1783. Historians note that at the time of the speech, troops were on the verge of mutiny, so discouraged were they by the fact that their pay was in arrears, that unsettled food and clothing accounts remained outstanding and that Congress had failed to furnish promised pensions. Washington rallied his troops by expressing confidence that Congress would treat them fairly and that the Army would do nothing to sully the glory they had won.

The Historical Society also says that, although most of the cabins left by the Army, which was formally disbanded after the signing of the peace Sept. 3, 1783, were sold or destroyed—a few were saved. Currently open for inspection are a number of log buildings, including the temple and an original officer's hut. It was from this simple log temple that the Proclamation of Congress for cessation of hostilities was announced April 19, 1783.

The site which will be visited on the field trip is now maintained by the State Department of Education, Division of Archives and History.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Registration Set At Local School, Classes Sept. 7

Frederick C. Dippel, supervising principal, New Paltz Central School, requests that all parents of any pupils new to the community register as soon as possible.

Registration for students in grades kindergarten through sixth should be made with Robert Bassik, elementary school principal, at the Duzine School. Those in grades seven through 12 should register with Thomas Benenati, guidance director at the central school.

School will open on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. Notices were sent to all registered students on Friday, Aug. 26. If any student did not receive the material, it probably indicates that the student is not registered. He should contact the school immediately.

Substitute teachers are needed for the New Paltz Central School system. Interested persons may contact John L. Wyman, high school principal, or Robert Bassik, elementary principal.

Scouts Start Fall Program Sept. 8

Boy Scout Troop 172 has announced the first meeting of the fall season will be held on Thursday, Sept. 8 at 7:30 p. m. in the Fireside Room of the New Paltz Reformed Church Education Building. At a recent planning meeting attended by troop committee members Charles Hamilton, Robert Corey, and Douglas Bartow; Scoutmaster Robert Perry, Reid Mackey, and Senior Patrol Leader Bruce Bartow, it was decided to have the first campout the weekend of Sept. 16. Troop 172 will again go camping every month of the year. More emphasis will be put on a summer program. All troop activities will be carried on through 12 months. It is felt by the troop leaders that during the months of July and August many boys have more time for Scouting and the troop has neglected these months in the past.

Any boy in the New Paltz area ages 11 through 14 who is interested in Scouting is welcome at the meetings held every Thursday.

Community Notes
Three teachers from the New Paltz Central School attended the State Leaders Workshop held in Oswego from Aug. 24 to Aug. 27. The workshop was sponsored by the Classroom Teachers Council of the New York State Teacher's Association. Attending were Mrs. Marjorie Glenn, Mrs. Amy Tenaglia and Paul Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Widley of Buffalo and their three children have moved into their new home on Cherry Hill Rd. Mr. Widley will teach at the State University College.

Peter Savago, New Paltz Town Supervisor will attend the New York State Republican Convention at Rochester as a delegate from Ulster County from Sept. 7 to Sept. 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crispell of Eddyville, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome DePuy of the Mountain Rest Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Christiana are the parents of a daughter, Jacqueline Joy, born Aug. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kuritzky of Peekskill were guests Thursday, of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil DePuy of Cherry Hill Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spurling of South Putt Corners Road, are the parents of a daughter, Sharon Elizabeth, born Aug. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Lorenzen of North Chestnut Street, here returned from Florida where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Lorenzen's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly of Arizona and friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly Sr., of Wingdale, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly Jr., of Cedar Ridge Road.

Judith Babb, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Babb of 39 Center Street, has been named to the dean's list of scholars at Simmons College in Boston for the year. A graduate of New Paltz High School, she will be a senior in the Department of Science this fall. She also attended Wellesley College.

Notification of a new telephone number has been received by the Medical Associates of New Paltz. Beginning Sept. 11 the new number will be 255-1200.

As of Sept. 11, 1966, at 2:01 a. m. the new number for the New Paltz Department will be 255-1212.

Council Officers Attend Conclave

New Paltz High School was represented at the Student Council Leadership Training Conference in Oswego.

The conference was held at the State University College, Oswego during the week of Aug. 29. The conference is open to Student Council Officers in New York State for the 1966-67 school year. It is designed to better prepare them for leadership responsibilities.

Ann Marie Tenaglia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tenaglia, and Cindy Pallus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pallus attended. Miss Tenaglia is vice-president and Miss Pallus is treasurer of the New Paltz High School Student Council.

Children's Clinic Is Scheduled Thursday

A Child Health Conference, conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, will be held at the Health Center, 175 Main Street, New Paltz Thursday, Sept. 8 from 10-11 a. m. and from 1-2 p. m.

These clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease and not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health

Too Many Requests For Virgins' Charter

READING, England (AP) — So many teen-age girls want to take a no-sex vow that Reading's League of Honor is in danger of collapse.

"It's all become too big for our small society to handle," said organizer Fred Jackman, 50.

Jackman, who has two teenage daughters, is secretary of the Reading Temperance Society, which founded the league several months ago. Girls were invited to sign a form pledging to renounce sex outside marriage, and encourage other youngsters to do the same.

The pledge became known locally as "the virgins charter." Word of its existence spread to other parts of England and to countries overseas. The result, said the worried organizer, was that hundreds of girls wrote to Reading asking for copies of the pledge. It is becoming just too much work for Jackman.

"What we need now," he told a reporter, "is someone interested in the scheme to take over as national secretary. Unpaid. I'm afraid."

supervision of their own physician must have written permission for this service to be rendered by the Child Health Conference. In this manner duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

In order to avoid overcrowded clinics, an appointment is required for admission. The public health nurse may be contacted for an appointment at the New Paltz Health Center between 9-10 a. m. Monday through Friday.

Ulster Library Board to Meet; Reviews Projects

The board of trustees of the Town of Ulster Library will meet Thursday 7:30 p. m. at the library.

Recently certificates and ribbons were presented to the 46 children participating in the eight-week summer reading game. Some read as many as 80 books during the period. Circulation figures went up by 150 books per day, a total of 1900 for the eight-week period. Mrs. Richard Nace and Mrs. Marie Gorsline were in charge of refreshments for the awards party.

Volunteer students who assisted Mrs. Walter Burgher, librarian during the summer were Ellen Wolslegel, Kathy Hatt, Joann Aumand, Susan Schabot and Paul Fowler. Mrs. Burgher noted that their assistance was most appreciated with the increase in circulation.

In conjunction with the return to regular hours at the library, Sept. 12 through 17 will be a Free of Fines period in which all overdue books may be returned without penalty.

Storytime for pre-schoolers through third grade was held during the summer with over 50 children participating.

RE-ENTRY VEHICLE for future astronauts returning to earth from space could resemble this model rotor craft now undergoing wind-tunnel tests at NASA's Ames Research Center, Mountain View, Calif. It's designed to enter the atmosphere with partially extended rotor blades, angled back, to slow it down from the high speed of orbital flight. Once in the atmosphere, the craft would extend rotors fully, as shown on the model, for descent to earth much as a conventional helicopter makes an unpowered landing.

Search Continues For Boy After Boating Mishap

Search continued today for the body of John J. Svec, 16, of 1059 Lexington Avenue, Manhattan, who is believed to have drowned in Greenwood Lake in Orange County, after a boating mishap last Thursday night.

State Trooper D. R. George of the Monroe detail, who is in charge of state police scuba divers at the lake, said five other divers have been at the scene searching for the body daily since the accident.

The Svec boy disappeared after a boat on which he was riding was in collision with another vessel about 1 1/2 miles from the New Jersey State line in Orange County.

Troopers said the Svec boy was on a 14-foot boat operated by Peter Lorenzo, 15, of Hoboken, N. J. The other craft was a 21-foot boat operated by Seely L. Quackenbush, 37, of Jersey Avenue, Greenwood Lake.

Four other persons involved in the mishap were saved.

Big Contract, 'Bust' Hand

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Oswald: "One of the nicest trump management hands I remember is one you played when we won the 1965 Hawaiian Regional team. I sure hope that no one on your cruise to Hawaii next month holds quite as bad a hand as yours."

Jim: "I can't blame you for going all the way to four spades with your hand but I wasn't happy about any part of it when I looked over dummy. At least I was pretty sure that trumps were going to break 3-2. If would have doubled me."

Oswald: "You might have had a fifth spade or a black queen or something of value. Anyway you made your contract and there was nothing your adversaries could do about it."

Jim: "It was a matter of giving the cards a chance. West played the king, then the queen of diamonds. I ruffed in dummy and led a low trump. I wanted to play two rounds of trumps but to be sure that my opponents would not be able to lead a trump done."

Oswald: "East won the first spade and led his last diamond. You ruffed that in dummy also and cashed dummy's ace of trumps."

Jim: "When both opponents followed I was practically home."

I played your ace and king of clubs and ruffed a club. Then I led a heart to dummy and ruffed another club with my last trump. That left East with the only trump but he had to follow suit on the rest of dummy's hearts. He did make the last trick."

Oswald: "Even a trump opening would not have beaten you. You would duck the first lead and win the second. Then you would go after clubs the same way, getting back to dummy each time with good hearts. You would lose a spade and diamond at the finish."

Investor Forum

A PARADOX

The stock market is a paradox. Investors are selling good stocks for deteriorating dollars and they are hesitating to buy good stocks with poor dollars.

The psychological interpretation of economic and military events lies back of this paradox. I shall discuss concretely how this works out.

Here in New York City, there is a wealthy retired business executive. He does not believe we should be in Viet Nam. The grandson of one of his old friends is there. His bitter feeling about the war has colored his judgment. As a result, he has recently sold about $250,000 of prime equities.

Another executive, whose bank holdings are large, thinks that the big commercial banks are paying entirely too much for their time and savings deposits. For that reason, he has just sold $160,000 of prime stocks unnecessarily.

A third executive, who has a big position in the common stock of the world's leading steel corporation, has recently "dumped" 2,000 shares at $42.43. When the stock was paying $3 a share, and selling for $100, a different psychological base undergirded the market. He fears governmental interference in steel prices.

In 90 days — May, June, and July of 1966 — the Dow Jones industrial averages sold off 100 points. And the three executives who sold $500,000 worth of equities represent that army of investors whose concern about economic and military events caused the unloading of stocks.

It is my conviction that the price decline has been carried too far and that in the months ahead, prices will not only recover their losses but will also make all-time highs.

Generally speaking, the public likes to buy stocks on a rising market and to sell stocks on a declining market. Frequently, the very reverse of these policies proves to be most profitable.

When the Dow Jones averages went down from 940 to 840 for no good reason at all, the slow price attrition got under the skins of thousands of investors who, fearing lower prices, sold out on the way down.

It is fast becoming true that the psychological forces are as important as economic forces in determining where prices will go.

For that reason, I would counsel investors to buy sound stocks when market pessimism rules the roost and when shares of good stocks are being promiscuously sold.

This column is in its 35th year and the fan mail I receive from my readers is always large when prices are advancing and always small when prices recede.

And during May, June, and July, 1966, when the Dow Jones averages were going from 940 to 840, this mail nearly dried up. When the averages got back to 900 (as they will), millions of dollars will come out of hiding and investors will buy shares at far higher prices than they would pay today.

Paradoxes are created by investors whose feelings and emotions govern their decisions. How much better it is to use sound judgment and logical calculation when buying stocks.

It is my judgment that today is a good time to buy sound equities with deteriorating dollars.

Ex-Chiefs Are Just Spectators During This Year's Meet

Just Guests Now

Nevertheless, the once-powerful party leaders attracted a small swarm of well-wishers as they debarked from a taxicab outside the headquarters hotel Tuesday night.

DeSapio, the former Tammany Hall leader, and Prendergast, the ex-state chairman, ruled the roost at the 1958 convention. Over the objections of the then incumbent Democratic Governor, Averell Harriman, they forced nomination of Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan for U.S. senator.

The clamorous fight over Hogan gave political newcomer Nelson A. Rockefeller a potent "bossism" issue to use against Harriman in the ensuing campaign, which culminated in Harriman's defeat.

DeSapio and Prendergast, later tumbled from their political offices, are attending the 1966 convention as invited guests.

Neither is a delegate and neither is playing any significant role in the deliberations. Both sidestepped with professional finesse when asked by a reporter to state their preference for the gubernatorial nomination.

Still Attracts Followers

But Prendergast allowed an attractive young lady to pin an O'Connor button on his lapel as he entered the hotel lobby. "Sure," he said, with a smile, when she offered the button.

And DeSapio inferentially rejected remarks by an anti-O'Connor delegate who argued in his presence that O'Connor could not win the election because he would not have the endorsement of the Liberal Party.

"Anything can happen in an election campaign," said DeSapio. "There are so many unknown factors that no one can predict in advance what the outcome will be."

The third participant in the 1958 drama — Harriman — was booked for a major address to the convention this afternoon.

Since 1960, the former governor has been serving as a trouble-shooter for the U.S. State Department.

Try to Explain Darshan Meaning In India Politics

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Westerners don't understand it and Indians cannot really explain it, but "darshan" helps make the wheels go around in India.

That being the case, astute Indian politicians pay plenty of attention to this Hindu phenomenon.

Darshan roughly translated means obtaining special merit, favor or godliness by touching, speaking to or merely being near a notable person.

Right of All

As practiced, it means every Indian has a right to personally meet high-ranking officials and present complaints or grievances.

That's where the politics comes in.

Each day, hundreds of Indian petitioners with a wide assortment of problems gather in the streets and gardens outside the homes of national and state officials, who welcome this exposure to voters.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, though busy with affairs of state, sets aside a period each morning to grant darshan in the garden of her home.

A tent-like "shamiana" is erected to ward off monsoon rain showers. Carpets are laid over the muddy grass, and chairs are put out for the sad and solemn who come.

Mrs. Gandhi's darshan started shortly after 8 a.m. one day, after her personal secretary had screened out obvious cranks and security risks from petitioners standing in the street.

About 25 persons, from babes in arms to aged grandfathers, were waiting as the prime minister came out of the house wearing a brown and green sari. Everyone present jumped to his feet and returned her

Immanuel Church Plans Activities

The first fall meeting of the Parent Teacher League of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Livingston Street, will be held Thursday 7:30 p. m. with installation of officers.

New officers are Mrs. A. Kent, president; Mrs. J. Neilson, vice president; Mrs. Barbara Schoonmaker, secretary and Mrs. Janet Rogers, treasurer.

Patricia Lasher and Peggy Wolff, delegates to the LLL Camp of the Pine at Schrono Lake, will report on their experiences and show pictures of the camp. Any member or friend of the school may attend.

On Sept. 13 the Ruth Guild-LWML meeting will be advanced to 7:30 p. m. so that the slide lecture, The Yearbook, may be presented by the Rev. Herman Biellenberg at 8 p. m. The Ruth Guild is sponsoring the program.

Prospects Seen Dim for Passage Of CR Measure

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an alliance of Republicans and Southern Democrats arrayed against the civil rights bill, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield concedes prospects for passage are dim.

"I think the prospects are not good," Mansfield said. "It's a matter of votes, you can add them and subtract them."

Can't Get Two-Thirds

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen said he does not believe the bill's advocates can muster a two-thirds vote to shut off a filibuster against the measure.

"I can't help get cloture for something in which I do not believe," said Dirksen, standing fast in opposition to the bill's open housing section.

Instead, Dirksen and a team of GOP allies — he would not say how many — are joining the filibuster.

"I never filibuster," said Dirksen. "It just takes so long to tell your story."

Dirksen said he would start telling his story today. "I'll speak two or three hours, maybe longer. It depends on how long these crutches hold out," said the Illinois senator, still hobbled by a hip fracture.

Poised for the start of a civil rights bill struggle that will determine when this election-year Congress adjourns, the Senate had to quit Tuesday for lack of a quorum.

Need 51 Senators

It takes 51 senators to do business, and only 40 were on hand after the Labor Day weekend.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., the bill's floor manager, tried without success to make a start on the process of getting the bill before the Senate. He never got to make his motion. When it comes, the motion will signal the start of a filibuster.

Dirksen said his Republican allies, and Southern Democrats will take turns talking in opposition to the bill.

"We'll take a day and they'll take a day," he said.

The House-passed civil rights measure would ban racial discrimination in about 40 per cent of the nation's housing, mainly in apartments and new single home developments. Individual home owners would not be covered.

The bill also has provisions aimed at eliminating discrimination in the selection of juries and protecting the rights of Negroes and civil rights workers.

During the Civil War, Romney, W. Va., changed hands 56 times.

Doubts Problems For Platform at GOP Convention

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican election platform, a 3,500-word draft that was kept secret until the last minute, went before delegates to the state party convention today.

James A. Fitzpatrick of Plattsburgh, platform advisory committee chairman, said Tuesday he expected no controversy over the platform's contents.

"I am not going to make any statement at this time about what is in it. I don't foresee any problem at this convention with the platform."

Fitzpatrick, chairman of the State Power Authority, was slated to head the platform committee for the fourth consecutive GOP convention.

Meanwhile, a Negro member of the committee blasted civil rights leaders Tuesday for failing to appear at a statewide series of hearings held by the committee.

Grant Reynolds of White Plains, former counsel for the Republican national committee, said he was "appalled that there has been no testimony from civil rights organizations."

"Are we to assume from their absence that the Republican Party has enacted all the legislation needed to cure the evils of the ghettoes?"

"In spite of this, I'm sure we know that the problems of the ghettoes will undoubtedly become one of the major campaign issues. I am therefore confident that this committee will draft a strong civil rights platform," Reynolds said.

Fitzpatrick said there has been less controversy over the platform this year than in years past and attributed it to the "nature and extent of Gov. Rockefeller's program."

He said the platform was approved by the 114-member Rules and Resolutions Committee about noon today.

Teri Purvis Dies

apparently became confused in dense fog after the vehicle left the four-lane highway and entered the narrow two-lane highway north of the state police barracks.

Had Delicate Surgery

Troopers said the car crossed to the west side of the road and hit a rock ledge. Miss Purvis was taken to the hospital in Poughkeepsie suffering multiple injuries including a fractured pelvis, broken neck, cerebral concussion and other injuries.

She underwent delicate brain surgery at the hospital as surgeons fought to save the young woman's life.

After her graduation from Kingston High School at the close of the last school year, Miss Purvis was employed at the Montgomery Ward Co. store, and according to a relative she was promoted to an office position at the store, and was to have assumed her new duties the day after the accident.

On the late afternoon of Jan. 9, Miss Purvis was critically injured in a head-on collision at West Park. She survived the injuries, but four occupants of the other car were killed. They were, Ignace Pietroski, 55, owner and operator of the other car, his wife, Helen, 48; Henry Pietroski, 37, and his wife, Teresa, 37, all of Middle Patent Road, Bedford.

After the January accident, troopers reported Miss Purvis was driving north, the Pietroski vehicle was traveling south and apparently crossed over into the northbound lane where the crash occurred. The Pietroskis had come to Kingston from their Westchester County homes, with Thomas Pietroski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ignace Pietroski, who boarded a bus for Delhi at the local terminal.

The Pietroskis were returning home when the mishap occurred. In the January accident, according to authorities, Miss Purvis suffered a fractured jaw, broken nose and other injuries.

Funeral Friday
Funeral services for Miss Purvis will be held Friday 10:30 a. m. at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, with burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Thursday.

In addition to her parents, John E. and Pauline G. Benoit Purvis, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Daniel Cronan Jr. of Rosendale and her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Purvis of Kingston.

She was a member of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Drivers Fined $80

Four drivers booked on traffic charges were fined $80 in city court today. Walter M. Moore, 20, of 69 West Union Street, charged with driving without a license was fined $35, and Harold R. Waterman, 49, of 354 First Avenue, charged with permitting him to drive unlicensed, was fined $25. Charged with speeding and fined $10 each were Herbert L. Sather, 45, of Water Park and Annam Uhl, 48, of Sunrise Avenue, Town of Ulster.

Given 10 Days

Karl Edmundson, 21, of Shokan, who was arrested Aug. 20 by Deputy Sheriff James Milesky in the Town of Kingston on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was given 10 days in jail by Justice Robert Ferrigan for contempt of court. It was charged he created a disturbance when taken before the court on the other charge.

Quakers Register Viet Nam Protest In Letter to LBJ

The following is the text of a letter addressed to President Lyndon B. Johnson, from the New York Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers), adopted at their week long annual conference at Silver Bay recently.

The conference, consisting of 402 delegates, represents 6,765 Quakers from 72 local meetings in New York State, Northern New Jersey, and Southern Connecticut.

Dear Mr. President:

"We feel we must share with you our deep anguish over the incalculable agonies of the Vietnamese people. We are also deeply distressed by the physical torments endured by our American boys in Viet Nam but even more by the irreparable spiritual damage always suffered by those who inflict suffering on their fellow men."

"Our nation and the souls of all American citizens are facing the supreme test. To continue this war, regardless of who has more responsibility for refusing to come to the peace table, is a crime against humanity. The United States as the world's most powerful nation has a moral responsibility to bring hope to the world by breaking the vicious circle, using every imaginative and creative method immediately to end this war. First steps could include those suggested by U Thant:

"Cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam.

"Scaling down all military activities in South Vietnam, which alone could lead to an effective cease-fire.

"Willingness to enter into discussions with all sides who are fighting, including the National Liberation Front.

"Specifically, we wish to suggest to you with all the moral power we can bring to bear, that the United States immediately stop all bombing and reduce military activities to purely defensive action pending the phased withdrawal of American troops and the introduction of such international guarantees for the maintenance of order as are acceptable to the Vietnamese people."

"We pray that you may receive God's guidance and that you will feel the moral strength and courage to take steps which can end this terrible war. We are confident that if you take such positive steps, you will have the overwhelming thanks of mankind."

Signed on behalf of New York Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, Delbert E. Replogle, Clerk. Copies of this letter were also sent to the Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, Ambassador Goldberg and Premier Ky.

Refuses Viet Nam Shipping Orders, To Face Charges

By JOHN O. KOEHLER
FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — "I am not yet a Communist, but you never know"

When he made the statement, U.S. Army Pvt. Dennis Mora grinned. Had he said this in the Ft. Dix snack bar instead of to newsmen in a general court room, one would have thought he was joking.

The 25-year-old New York City soldier is on trial, charged with refusing to obey an officer's order that he go to Viet Nam. If found guilty, he could be dishonorably discharged and sent to Leavenworth prison for five years.

But the prospect of a prison sentence didn't seem to worry Mora when he talked with reporters during a court recess Tuesday.

"I'll serve five years and in ten years I will be vindicated," he said.

Mora said he is a member of the W. E. B. DuBois Club, declared subversive by the U.S. attorney general.

"I am a Socialist," he said, again displaying a grin.

Asked to explain himself, Mora said nothing.

Mora, born in New York of Puerto Rican parents, said he was a case worker for the New York City Welfare Department before being drafted into the Army.

He originally set out to study science, but his grades in physics weren't good enough, he said, so he switched to history and was graduated from the City College of New York.

Eventually, he said, he wanted to become a teacher.

His father, 77-year-old Jose Mora, was a locksmith when Dennis was growing up.

Mora, slender, 5-feet-8, said he refuses to fight in Viet Nam because American action there is "immoral, illegal and unjust."

Among other things, he said, his contention was based on the fact that the U.S. Congress had not declared war.

To Head Radio Station

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A native of Buffalo, N.Y., has been appointed general manager of WPRO-AM-FM radio station in Providence.

The appointment of James Arcara to the post was announced Tuesday by Thomas Murphy, chairman of the board of the Capital Cities Broadcasting Co.

Arcara is a graduate of St. Bonaventure University in Olean, N.Y., and formerly worked at station WKGB in Buffalo. He succeeds Peter C. Newell, who was recently named vice-president and general manager of WPRO-TV.

Noted Comedian Al Kelly Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Al Kelly, 67, whose double-taking monologues confused and delighted audiences for 50 years, died today of a heart attack.

Kelly's last appearance in this area was in April when he starred at the WGHQ Human Relations Award dinner at which Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was the principal speaker.

Camouflage Not Enough, Red Oil Depot Blasted

SAIGON (AP) — A hawk-eyed U.S. Navy bomber pilot blasted an oil depot that the North Vietnamese had painstakingly tried to camouflage.

Cmdr. Harry B. Southworth, 38, spotted the top of the underground oil depot Tuesday in an open field in North Viet Nam.

"The field looked suspicious to me," Southworth said. "The grass looked unnatural, compared to the surrounding fields and a large barge was tied up alongside a nearby pier."

"I dropped a 500-pound bomb right in the middle of the target and the field erupted in a huge 'smoke' with heavy black smoke," he said.

Southworth, son of Rear Adm. and Mrs. H. S. Southworth of Mexico, N.Y., was leading Attack Squadron 72, which also struck other targets.

Report Peking Orders Militant Guards to Leave

VIENNA (AP) — Communist Czechoslovakia's official news agency reported today that the Red Chinese government has ordered hundreds of thousands of young Red Guards from the provinces to leave Peking by Saturday.

The report from Peking by CTK, the Czechoslovak agency, was supported by a Peking dispatch to the Soviet news agency Tass which said the Red Guard in one Peking girls' high school had demanded that the guards from the provinces leave by the end of the week.

The militia young Chinese poured into Peking from the provinces after youth units in the capital went on the rampage against old customs and ideas as part of the purge which China's new No. 2 man, Defense Minister Lin Biao, has been directing.

The Chinese leadership at first enthusiastically supported the Red Guards. But on Aug. 31 Lin Biao and Premier Chou En-lai told them to avoid force and coercion, and today the Chinese Communist party warned the youths not to interfere with farm and factory production.

Tass said the same charge was made by the girls' Red Guard unit which demanded the withdrawal of the provincial guards.

Despite expert medical attention at the Brooklyn hospital, Mrs. Santosky's condition complicated by effects of uremic poisoning worsened within recent weeks. It is expected that the Jackie Santosky Fund will be continued as a memorial to the young woman and will serve to aid others in similar circumstances.

During the repose at the funeral home, hundreds of friends called to pay their respects and offer condolences to the bereaved family. The chapel was completely banked with floral tributes.

Monday evening Father Anderson called and conducted a prayer service.

Burial was in Rosendale Cemetery where Father Anderson conducted the committal. Bearers were Kenneth Schermerhorn, Lowell Scully, Robert McKinley, Arthur Wells, Martin Irving and Sal Montella.

Brush Fire Checked

Local firemen checked a brush fire Tuesday afternoon in an area of Gross Street near the John F. Kennedy School. It was reported of unknown origin. Units from Central Station, the Courts and Union companies responded at 5:42 p. m. with Capt. Harry L. Sils in charge.

Automation for IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed by voice vote and forwarded to the Senate a bill that would channel future income tax returns into seven regional automatic data processing centers instead of 58 Internal Revenue Service offices.

Individual revenue offices still would be available for consultation and for use by taxpayers who want to bring in their returns by hand.

First on Coin

The first U.S. coin to bear the portrait of a woman was the Queen Isabella commemorative quarter authorized by Congress in 1933. The coins were sold for $1 during the Columbian Exposition.

Birth Control Crusader for 51 Years Succumbs

Mrs. Beulah Cassimatis of 15 Belvedere Street died at her home early Tuesday. A native of Binnewater, she was a daughter of the late Andrew and Mary Smith Krom. She had been a resident of Kingston for many years. Surviving are her husband James Cassimatis; a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Burger of Westwood, N. J.; a sister, Mrs. Lottie Miller of Pompton Lakes, N. J.; and a brother, Andrew Krom of Kingston; two grandchildren. Funeral will be held from the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs Street, Friday 2 p. m. with the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery Stone Ridge. Friends may call at the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home tonight 7 to 9 and Thursday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Margaret Sanger, the tiny New York nurse who crusaded since the turn of the century for the right of women to prevent unwanted childbirth, died Tuesday at 82.

She lived to see her goals accepted by foreign governments and by millions throughout a crowded world.

Appalled by the physical torture faced by poverty-stricken women especially, Mrs. Sanger launched a life-long battle to gain official recognition of birth control.

Her planned parenthood clinics grew into the hundreds. Her campaign for birth control started in 1915 gained her world fame. She organized the first American birth control conference in 1921, wrote books on the subject and for years edited and published The Woman Rebel.

Funeral Is Held For Heroine of Recent Appeal

The funeral of Mrs. Jacqueline M. Santosky, 27, of Tillson, who died at Prospect Heights Hospital, Brooklyn Saturday, were held at the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale, Tuesday 1:30 p. m. thence to the Episcopal Church of Christ the King Stone Ridge where the Burial Office was officiated by the Rev. Vincent Anderson, priest-in-charge.

Mrs. Santosky, who had suffered from a kidney ailment most of her life, was the subject of recent heart warming county-wide drive for funds to purchase a dialysis machine. Her plight was brought to the attention of the public through an article in The Freeman and within a short time, radio station WKNY took up the cause, staging a round-the-clock appeal for funds.

Delaware Youth Killed in Crash

An 18-year-old Delaware County youth was killed at 12:40 a.m. today when his car left the road on County Road 33 in the town of Kortright and overturned in a field. He was pronounced dead from a fractured skull by Delaware County Coroner Dr. Harry Wilbur of Walton.

State Police at Margaretville who investigated the accident reported Gerald W. Martin, 18, of Bloomville was traveling north on County Road 33 at a high rate of speed when his car failed to negotiate a right turn. The car ran 270 feet in the ditch and then 340 feet sideways into a field where it overturned. Martin, the troopers said, was ejected on the first overturn and the car rolled over again and came to rest on Martin. The car was equipped with seat belts but the driver was not using the belt.

Investigating the accident were Zone Sergeant Richard Rauch, Trooper A. J. Little of Oneonta, BCI Investigator Philip Parenteau and Troopers Robert Peffley and Dennis Garry of the Margaretville station.

House to Study Interest Limit Measures Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House takes up interest-limiting legislation today in the face of deep disagreement among House Democrats and increasing talk of a tax increase to fight inflation.

The debate, expected to lead to a vote Thursday, is likely to range far beyond the scope of the two bills before the House. These are concerned only with damping down the competition between banks and savings and loan associations for home mortgage funds.

Seek Compromise

Some Democrats are seeking a compromise formula between a bill introduced by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, and another measure backed by the Treasury. Other members, however, contend neither bill goes far enough.

The object of both measures is the same — to keep the higher interest rates offered by commercial banks on time deposits from drying up the flow of savings into savings and loan associations, traditionally the main source of funds for the currently hard-pressed home building industry.

Patman's bill would set a 4½ per cent ceiling on bank interest paid on time deposits of no more than $100,000. Time deposits are those left for a specified period and often are represented by negotiable receipts called certificates of deposit. The rate could be increased only with presidential approval. The Treasury bill, introduced by Rep. Robert G. Stephens Jr., D-Ga., would leave interest rate discretion with the Federal Reserve.

Study Ceiling

One suggested compromise is a reworking of the Patman bill to make the 4½ per cent ceiling advisory by Congress rather than mandatory.

Many members have been looking beyond the Patman and Stephens bills to what they regard as the inevitable administration request, sooner or later, for a tax increase to sop up spendable funds and reduce the government's dependence on the ever-rising capital market.

The key figure in Congress on tax matters, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, gave his colleagues the impression Tuesday that no decision on a tax boost has been made.

Questioned in the House, Mills said fiscal policy could hardly be set until the total of ordinary appropriations still in the legislative mill is known and the size of the multibillion-dollar extra appropriation to be sought for Viet Nam operations is determined.

Club for Blind Hears Speaker on Folklore

Harry Rigby Jr. was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of SEEC, an organization for the blind, at the YWCA. He spoke of the legends and folklore of the Catskill Mountains, Hudson Valley and Kingston.

SEEC stands for social, economical, educational and cultural and is sponsored by the Lions Club of Kingston.

A social hour followed the meeting where it was urged that the blind and near blind of the area attend the meetings and become a member.

The next meeting will be Sept. 27 at 8 p. m. in the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

Woodstock Auxiliary Gifts Vols for Alarm

A donation of $250 to Woodstock Fire Company No. 3 was made by its Ladies Auxiliary at the regular meeting held last week at the firehouse in Lake Hill.

The gift was earmarked for purchase of a plectron alarm unit for the fire company captain, and the balance will be utilized for necessary equipment to place the new tank truck in service.

The Ladies Auxiliary is also planning another in the series of family suppers at the firehouse in October, with the definite date to be announced. These suppers are open to all active firemen, Auxiliary members and their families.

The month of October will also feature a public social party to be held at the firehouse, for the benefit of the Auxiliary treasury.

The annual December bus trip to New York City was on the agenda of the meeting, with an announcement to be made concerning the date and place of departure.

Membership dues are now being collected by members of the Auxiliary, with a report due at the meeting to be held at the firehouse at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 27. Ladies of the community who desire to become affiliated with the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3 are invited to attend the September meeting.

Lutheran Church Has Installation Of New Teachers

The following persons will be installed as teachers in the Sunday Church School of Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock, this Sunday at 11 a. m. service: Nursery: Mrs. Edouard Blatter; Kindergarten A: Mrs. Donald Donohue; Kindergarten B: Mrs. Frank Mayer; 1st Grade: Mrs. Fred Thais Jr.; 2nd Grade: Robert Ross; 3rd Grade: Mrs. Jon Veberg; 4th Grade: Harold Schussler; 5th Grade: Mrs. Clyde Wengert; 6th Grade: Otto Scheu Jr.; 7th Grade: Mrs. Robert Wunderle; 8th Grade: Mrs. Erwin Holumer; Adult Class: the Rev. Norman C. Krapf.

The War for the Mind will be the topic of the sermon which will be delivered at this service by Pastor Krapf. Church school will open at 9:30 a. m. with classes for all age groups.

Ninth grade Confirmation Class will meet Saturday at 9 a. m. This change does not effect seventh and eighth grade classes which will be organized as previously announced on Saturday, Sept. 24.

High School youth who are in the 10th grade and above from the Lutheran and Methodist churches in Woodstock will meet this Saturday at the Drake residence, 35 Speare Road. This will be a kick-off meeting in order to project a meaningful program for the coming year. The time of the meeting is 8 p. m.

This Sunday and next, an opportunity will be given to those who wish to contribute to the $8,000,000 appeal of the Lutheran Theological Seminary of Philadelphia, Pa. The seminary has served Lutheran churches for over 100 years and will relocate near the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. This move is being made in order to promote a dialogue between theology and the academic world in addition to providing a much-needed modern facility for Lutheran theological education in the decades ahead.

Reservations for the Sept. 18 meeting of the Hudson District to be held in Poughkeepsie must be made to the minister by Sunday, Sept. 11. One of the featured speakers at this meeting will be Louis Kleiman of NASA who has titled his talk on manned space flight: "The Other Flight Director."

Episcopal Church School Reopening

St. Gregory's Episcopal Church School will reopen Sunday, Sept. 11 at 10 a. m. Students, Nursery-Grade 6, are to report to their classes at that time. New students should also register at the same time for Nursery through Grade 6 in the Parish Hall at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Route 212, Woodstock.

This is a change from last year. Each Sunday, children will go to their classes first. At the end of class, they will be

Bircher Defeated: Gov. Sawyer Wins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada has won Democratic renomination for a third term after a primary election campaign that focused on gambling operations.

In another primary election Tuesday, an Iowa State University history professor breezed to the Democratic nomination for senator and a fellow faculty member held a slim lead in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

In North Dakota, a member of the John Birch Society was defeated by the Republican organization's choice in a battle for a GOP congressional nomination.

Sawyer rolled up 55 per cent of the vote in sweeping past five opponents. He will be bidding for an unprecedented third term in the Nov. 8 general election when he faces Lt. Gov. Paul Laxalt, the only Republican holding major state office in Nevada. Laxalt swamped his one primary opponent Tuesday.

In the campaign, Sawyer contended the Justice Department had conducted "silent warfare" against Nevada gambling while Robert F. Kennedy was attorney general. His opponents charged Sawyer had allowed a breakdown in gambling control.

Democratic Rep. Walter S. Baring won renomination for an eighth term as Nevada's lone House member, defeating Ralph Denton, a Boulder City and Las Vegas attorney.

taken to church for the conclusion of the service and dismissed from there.

During 10 a. m. service, baby-sitters will be provided in the Parish Hall for pre-school age children.

There will be a family coffee hour in the Parish Hall after 10 a. m. service on the first Sunday of each month.

Regular services on Sunday are the Holy Eucharist at 8 a. m. and the Parish Communion and Sunday School at 10 a. m. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated on Mondays at 9 a. m., Wednesdays at 10 a. m., Fridays at 7 a. m. and Holy Days at 10 a. m.

The Rev. E. W. Schmidt is vicar of St. Gregory's Church and may be reached at P. O. Box 66, Woodstock.

Mayor to Appoint Street Light Group

Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan today said he would name a committee to consider replacement of street lights with modern units. It is to consist, he said, of two former mayors and two former aldermen.

It was indicated last week that first consideration would be given lights on Broadway and Main Street, that a bond issue will be required for the project, and that experts on street lighting would be consulted.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Board Tables Sewer Survey; Sets Hearing on Tax Relief

Pollution was the prime topic at the September meeting of the Saugerties Town Board. Village of Saugerties Mayor Cornelius M. Cox, accompanied by several trustees of the Village Board, appeared at the recent monthly meeting to ask the cooperation of the Town Board in helping to return the waters of the Hudson River in this vicinity to the pure, sylvan condition of colonial times—before detergents took their toll; industrial wastes found their way down the banks and into the stream; and tankers dumped their ballast.

In mid-August, the Village Board had unanimously voted to authorize the engineering firm of Brinnier and Laros of Kingston, to make a comprehensive engineering survey of the entire sewage disposal system of the village.

The Board had been nudged into undertaking the survey because of new State legislation which requires that the local sewage disposal system here be placed in conformity with other localities and communities along the river, all of which must now undertake secondary treatment of sewage, according to law.

Deadline Is 1970

The village sewerage system had received a slap on the wrist officially: been called "a polluter" by State Health Department engineers working on water pollution in this area. Local officials had been notified that an adequate plant should be constructed to eliminate the problem by 1970 at the latest.

It was at this point that the Village Board and Mayor Cox found it expedient to cooperate; showed they would cooperate by authorizing the survey. Next step was to secure the necessary cooperation of the Town of Saugerties since it was felt that a new and larger plant would have to be big enough to handle sections of the town.

In addition, it would now appear that the town is the governmental unit which has to sponsor the survey for a sewer district, a fact that was not noted in the original announcement of the hiring of engineers.

Government Pays Cost

Although the survey will not cost town taxpayers a penny, since the Federal government reimburses local governments for the entire cost of exploring sewage and pollution problems, money for the survey would be sent to town officials from the government and the town, in turn, would pay engineers from these funds.

Free or not, necessary or not, eventually unavoidable or not, the matter was tabled by the Town Board. The project of drawing up the resolution which will assure the town's cooperation was turned over to the town attorney, who felt further study of the resolution was required since the law involved is new and he is unfamiliar with all its many ramifications.

There is little doubt that eventually the town will go along and pollution will be taken off the table. For the present, however, town officials adamantly deny that the town contributes to pollution of the Hudson; say the village is the prime polluter; and nix rumors that the Barclay Heights area is a polluter as false since although there are sewers there, they do not empty into the river or anywhere near it.

Also tabled for future action was a request by representatives of Videcom Inc. of Saugerties, who attended the meeting, that the board change the firm's franchise so rates to subscribers could be increased from $4.50 to $5 per month. Envisioning the hue and cry that would go up from the public, which might misunderstand that the board was raising rates rather than simply granting permission for the firm to do so, members left the matter unresolved. Videcom spokesman said the $4.50 rate had been in effect since March 1960; pointed out that prices and the cost of living have soared in the intervening years and that the increase is needed by them. The board deferred for the time being; suggested the company return again with figures which undeniably show the need for the increase.

Set Public Hearing

The board also set Sept. 28, at 8 p. m., in the town offices, as the time for a public hearing on tax exemptions for elderly residents. New legislation allows some tax relief for persons 65 years and over, but the board is required to hold a public hearing on the matter before it can move to extend the benefits.

Placed on file was a letter from the State Department of Public Works in answer to a board request that shoulders along Route 212 between Saugerties and Woodstock be improved. Albany says the roads are in good condition and that shoulders could not be fixed unless rights of way were acquired, a process viewed as extremely expensive. Local officials hope, however, that the matter is still open; will push for work along the edge of the road. They will point out that the road edge, in many places, just seems to drop off into deep holes and will ask that this be corrected since the shoulders alone are not the only problem.

Methodist Church Slates Program For Fall Season

The fall program of Saugerties Methodist Church will begin with an MYF fall assembly at Camp Epworth Friday and Saturday, Sept. 9-10. Robert Gilbert, counselor, and a group of Senior High young people will attend this district rally in charge of the Rev. Bruce Carlson of Stone Ridge.

Sunday, Sept. 11, the church will begin two services of morning worship at 8:45 and 11 a. m. Mrs. Mildred Fellows is organist at the early service and Mrs. Jane Tonnese at 11, with Lewis Gaylord directing the Senior Choir and singing a solo. New voices are welcome and Junior and Senior Chords begin rehearsals Thursday, Sept. 8, 7 and 8 p. m. respectively. The Sacrament of Baptism will be administered at the second service. Child care for infants and toddlers this year will be in charge of Mrs. Nellie Sherman in the parish house at 11 a. m. There will be a second session of Sunday school as in previous years for children ages 3-8. Regular church school for all ages will be held at 9:45 a. m. Mothers registering new children should come early and avoid delay.

The Rev. J. H. Rainier will speak over WGHQ at 8 a. m. and hold a service at Dale's at 1:30 p. m. From 2:30-5 p. m. there will be a reception for the new district superintendent and his family, Dr. and Mrs. Wesley Osborne, at St. James Church, Kingston. Church officials are urged to attend MYF will not begin meetings until Sept. 18.

Monday, Sept. 12, 6:30 p. m., Methodist Men will hold their annual fall picnic at the home of Donald F. Leard, Route 2, Box 215, with a barbeque. Make all the trimmings. Make reservations with Norman Nitschke or Bill Brogan, Tuesday, Sept. 13, 7:30 p. m., the first fall meeting of the Official Board will be held at the parsonage, 40 Finger Street, with the Rev. and Mrs. Rainier as hosts.

Wednesday, Sept. 14, 2:30 p. m., Garden Club meets at the church.

Friday-Sunday, Sept. 16-18, the annual fall laymen's assembly will be held at Maplecrest. A fine program has been arranged with Bishop Wickie among the speakers. Call William Waldele for reservations for both men and wives.

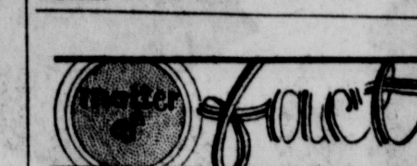

Baptists Plan Picnic at Lake

Regular mid-week prayer service and Bible study hour will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in First Baptist Church of Saugerties. The public is invited to attend this service. At 8:40 p. m., there will be a Pioneer Girls Committee meeting.

Friday, YAMS Class will meet at 8 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Reynolds. This is a social hour for all young adults, married and single. Saturday, the Sunday school picnic will be held at North Lake. Those needing transportation are asked to meet at the church at 1:30 p. m. Each family (or person) is responsible for their own motor vehicle for supper. The Sunday school will provide beverage and dessert.

Sunday, the "Wonderful Word" broadcast will be heard over radio station WGHQ at 9:05 a. m. The Rev. Brooks N. Henry, pastor, will continue a series of studies on "The Sermon on the Mount." At 9:45 a. m., Sunday school is held with classes for all ages. At 11 a. m., worship service is held. The pastor will continue a series of studies from the Gospel of Luke. The Ordinance of the Lord's Supper will also be observed. Beginner and primary church are held during the sermon period. A nursery is also provided. At 6 p. m., Berean Youth Fellowship will meet. This is a training hour for all Junior and Senior High School young people. At 7 p. m., evening service is held. The pastor will be speaking on "The Song of Songs."

Bulldogging steers was practiced during the spectacles in the Roman colosseum in the days of Julius Caesar. Steers for these early Roman circuses were imported from Spain. The sport became so popular that emperor Augustus built the Statilus Taurus, the first Roman amphitheater designed for this spectacle. Eventually, this contest of brute strength of men over bulls developed into bullfighting.

MEDAL WINNER—Air Force Chief Master Sergeant Dominick DePasquale, of Glasco, is a proud winner of the Joint Service Commendation Medal, presented for his service with the North American Air Defense Command. Sergeant De Pasquale, whose home address is 164 Hudson Street, Glasco, earned the award for his service as non-commissioned officer in charge of the Operations Division of NORAD's Combat Operations Center Directorate from May of 1965 to June 1966. Maj. Gen. J. L. Dickman, director of the center which is housed inside a mountain near Colorado Springs, Colo., is shown presenting the award. The citation noted, "Because of his thorough knowledge and adept skills," Sergeant De Pasquale "was chosen to fulfill the position of air surveillance officer each and every time the commander in chief of NORAD and his battle staff were called to their positions; his remarkable abilities and the execution of his duties during these periods of increased readiness were in fact instrumental in aiding the battle staff to make accurate and appropriate air defense decisions."

Dairyalea Cheese Wins Top Honors In State Judging

Two New York State cheeses produced by a single co-op have won top honors in their respective divisions at the New York State Exposition.

Aged Cheddar cheese and cottage cheese, both produced by the Dairyalea's League Cooperative Association, Inc., were awarded the Expo's Gold Medal for 1966.

The prize-winning Cheddar was manufactured by the Dairyalea's League cheese plant at Adams, which produces over four million pounds of cheese a year, using up to 300,000 pounds of milk daily for that purpose.

The cottage cheese which earned the Expo Gold Medal is a product of the Dairyalea's League milk plant in Syracuse, at 810 Burnet Avenue.

Consumers know the red-waxed covered "wheels" and other aged Cheddar cuts, as well as the cartons of cottage cheese, under the League's trade name, Dairyalea.

Held on Check Charge

Accused of issuing two fraudulent checks in Saugerties, Mary Lou White, 29, of 300 Whitmore Avenue, Mayfield, Pa., was arrested Tuesday night by State Troopers Craig Bremer and Wachtel of the Kingston detail. The defendant pleaded guilty before Police Justice David Goble, Saugerties, and was sentenced to $25 or 10 days in county jail on each of two charges. In lieu of payment of the fine she was committed to jail, according to Trooper John Kohland.

Church Council Slates Meeting On Lottery Data

Opposition to the lottery will be discussed by the Kingston Area Council of Churches Thursday 8 p. m. at the First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue at Broadway.

The special planning meeting for the Committee of One Hundred Thousand Against the Lottery Amendment will be an open session in preparation for the first fall meeting of the council Sept. 22.

The regular meeting will be held at St. James Methodist Church 8 p. m. on that date and will feature the Rev. S. Bowen Hawkins, an authority on the subject of the lottery as guest speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins is the executive director of the New York Temperance Civic League, Inc., and he also serves as executive secretary of Alcohol Education for Youth, Inc. He is a member of the Legislative Commission of the New York State Council of Churches, heading the section on intoxicating beverages. The Rev. Mr. Hawkins addresses approximately 200 groups each year.

He is an ordained Methodist minister, a member of the Northern New York Conference. He is native of Newport in the West Canada Valley, attended Cornell University, Class of 1939; Utica College of Syracuse University and received his theological education through the Board of Education of the Methodist Church. He attended the Northeastern School on alcohol studies, the National Institute for the Prevention of Alcoholism and the Pennsylvania School on alcohol studies. The Rev. Mr. Hawkins has been representing the New York State Council of Churches in speaking on the subject of the forthcoming lottery amendment.

Employees Start Work Today at New Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP) — Employees report to work today at the World Journal Tribune after a contract settlement between the New York Newspaper Guild and the new merged paper made its publication Monday a virtual certainty.

The guild came to terms Tuesday, 135 days after it had struck the new corporation April 24. The dispute, which grew to include nine other unions, constituted the longest shutdown of a daily newspaper in the nation's history.

Some Report

Printers, and advertising and circulation department employees were scheduled to start work today with reporters, photographers and office personnel joining them later in the week in preparation for Monday's first edition.

Only a ratification vote by the stereotypers' union Sunday remained a possible block to publication of the afternoon and Sunday paper. No vote on their new contracts is required by the other unions.

"We're finished. Our people can return to work tomorrow," said Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the guild. The guild struck the merged paper, born of the consolidation of the Journal-American, the World-Telegram and The Sun and the Herald Tribune, the day before it was to have begun publication. Other craft unions refused to work without new contracts.

All 9 Agreed

All nine unions with the exception of the pressmen had reached agreements with the paper by Aug. 15, but the publishers' decision to scrap the 133 year old Herald Tribune as a morning companion to their afternoon edition forced a renegotiation of contracts.

The dispute was further complicated when the pressmen obtained a reduced seven and a half hour Saturday night shift. Individual adjustments were made with each union as compensation.

Until the World Journal Tribune dispute, the longest newspaper shutdown by a strike was one involving the Detroit News and the Detroit Free Press in 1964. Both papers were unable to publish for 134 days.

Matt Meyer, president of the new paper, said it planned to print one million copies Monday in five editions. The tabloid New York Post, which made wide circulation gains while the World Journal Tribune was not on the newsstands, will be its competition in the city's afternoon field.

Dear Abby . . .

Legal Advice Worth the Cost

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You are always telling people to consult a lawyer about their problems. Don't you realize how expensive lawyers are? Why didn't you tell WORRIED GRANDFATHER to ask his insurance agent about his liability regarding play equipment in his backyard? Insurance agents have all that information.

When our children were young, we carried insurance to protect us in case some child was hurt in our yard, and as I recall it wasn't very expensive. The insurance for three years probably wouldn't cost as much as getting an answer from a lawyer, and the grandfather would probably have to get insurance anyway to protect himself.

By the way, I am NOT in the insurance business.

THRIFTY

DEAR THRIFTY: You may be 100 per cent right, but when someone asks me a legal question, I tell him to hire a lawyer and pay him for what he knows. Competent legal advice is CHEAP. Ask anyone who tried to save a few dollars by handling his own legal affairs.

DEAR ABBY: A Christian friend of mine has been admitted to the hospital. My preacher requested that I go to visit him as not many people have.

I gave him my word that I would go, and when I told my mother where I was going she refused to let me go. She said it was not proper for a girl to see a boy in his pajamas. Is she right?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Pajamas are the accepted attire under the circumstances. One could hardly expect a boy who is sick in the hospital to dress in order to receive visitors.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about people who bore others to distraction with their travels, struck close to home with me. I went out collecting for a very worthwhile charitable organization, and was invited into the home of one woman who said she would write me out a check.

But first I had to listen for over an hour while she told me of her trip to Europe, and then to the Orient, and back home again by way of Hawaii. She even went and got hundreds of snapshots which she insisted I look at.

Then she showed me some of the expensive souvenirs she brought back from some foreign lands. And when she was all through, she handed me a check for ONE DOLLAR!

SPEECHLESS

DEAR ABBY: As an ex-member of the ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE, I must inform you that their motto is not, "WE ALWAYS GET OUR MAN." It is, "MAIN-TIENS LE DROIT," which means, "uphold the right!"

Very truly yours,

Emphysema Was Neglected Because of Defeatism

EDITOR'S NOTE — A chronic cough? Short of breath? It may be nothing at all. But it may also be symptoms of early emphysema, a lung disease causing increasing concern among doctors. The following, second in a four-part series on emphysema, tells of some new advances in treatment.

By FRANK CAREY
AP SCIENCE WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) — You have an area equivalent of two tennis courts inside your chest — and health authorities are growing increasingly worried about a lung disease, emphysema, which puts "holes in the tennis courts."

It does its lethal work by attacking tiny, bubble-like air sacs — numbering 750 million — in the tissue of the lungs. If the walls of these air sacs were spread out in a sheet, they'd occupy the area of two tennis courts.

A whisker-thin sheet of tissue sliced lengthwise from an emphysema-ridden lung — that is, an advanced case — looks like a motheaten scarf.

A slice as thick as a piece of steak shows large transparent areas that resemble the remains of a jellyfish tossed up on a beach. They contrast sharply with dense areas of still healthy tissue around them.

Doctors of the U.S. Public Health Service recently formed Chronic Respiratory Diseases Program — CRDP — contend that Emphysema — together with its frequent fellow traveler, chronic bronchitis — constitute a category of illness "which has been neglected by both official and private medicine largely due to a mixture of misinformation and defeatism."

They grant that no drug or other cure has yet been unearthed for emphysema — and no easy way to reverse the action of its stealthy sidekick, chronic bronchitis. As a result, "both patients and physicians have come to regard them as virtually hopeless."

But, says Dr. Wilfred David, acting chief of the Health Service Division of Chronic Diseases which organized the program, advances have been made by a few investigators and hospitals in treating sufferers — especially late-stage cases — and in rehabilitating significant numbers of them.

So the job now, he and other officials say, is to see to it that the message gets around, to demonstrate the value of establishing additional detection and treatment clinics, to make sure doctors everywhere are kept abreast of the latest information, and finally, to combat "the pessimism of all too many practitioners."

But what's this disease all about?

It dates back at least to the ancient Greeks and Romans, medical historians say.

It wasn't until more than 125 years ago that Laennec, the first physician to employ the newly developed stethoscope, noted a form of breathing obstruction that later became known as emphysema.

That's the Greek word for inflation, or blown up. And emphysema means a blown-up lung.

To understand it, think first of a tree placed upside down in your chest with the trunk extending into your throat. That's your "bronchial tree" — the lifeline for your breathing.

The trunk is your windpipe. From it shoot two main branches called bronchi — one going to the right lung, the other to the left.

From each, within the lung, even smaller offshoots branch off, with the smallest, or twigs being called bronchioles.

At the end of each of thousands of bronchioles is a nest of air sacs called alveoli.

The sponge-like lung expands upon inhalation because these alveoli sop up air instead of water. Moreover, these tiny air sacs are the lungs' real work horses.

They're the end of the line for the air you inhale with every breath and act as exchange depots for life-sustaining oxygen carried in your inhaled breath, and waste carbon dioxide contained in exhaled breath.

Through the membranous walls of the air sacs, oxygen passes into the tiny blood vessels — capillaries — that enmesh the sacs. And carbon dioxide is automatically tapped from the blood vessels.

In emphysema, the walls of the air sacs begin to be eaten away, though the extent and rate differs in individuals.

This results in groups of ruptured air sacs combining to form larger sacs which tend to trap stale air containing carbon dioxide inside the lung. Also, the lung begins to lose its wondrous elasticity, like an old rubber band, and becomes blown up.

Moreover, some of the small airway bronchioles which ordinarily pass expired air up through the bronchial tree collapse inward and become partially blocked to expired airflow.

Upshot is that the swollen lung becomes inefficient in its life-sustaining pumping action; roadblocks form for expired air; the body's tissues become partly starved for oxygen; and noxious carbon dioxide can pile up in the blood. In severe cases, the heart can be affected.

Strangely, inhalation is not obstructed by emphysema's devilry. However, as more air comes in from outside, and becomes partly trapped, the increased pressure causes larger air traps — called bullae — to form inside the lungs.

Also, if the emphysema patient also has chronic bronchitis, he's in for further trouble.

As Dr. James W. Raleigh, medical director of the National Tuberculosis Association explains it:

Bronchitis involves a thickening of the inner lining of the bronchial tubes, especially the larger ones, so the airway passages are narrowed. Also, there's an oversecretion of mucus, the normal lubricant of the passages, and a clogging of the whiplike, tiny hairs called cilia, which usually act to move unwanted irritants, like dust particles, out of the airways towards the mouth.

Mostly, the airway obstructing action of bronchitis affects outward airflow.

Anatomical Picture
So, that's the anatomical picture of emphysema. What's it look like from the outside, in its effect on the patient?

There may be a chronic cough. Shortness of breath — called dyspnea by the medics — may vary from mild distress upon exertion in early or not extensive cases to severe gasping episodes and cyanosis — a bluing of the lips and other areas from insufficient oxygen — even when the patient is resting. Some patients cough up mucus.

"These people even work hard — breathing — when they're asleep," Dr. Sumner Cohen of Mt. Sinai Hospital, Minneapolis, told the reporter.

How do the patients themselves react?

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., 69, second-ranking member of the Senate from the seniority standpoint, says:

"I've learned to live with it. I think mine is an arrested case — dating from 1958 when it was first diagnosed — and I quit smoking, although I had been real short of breath since about 1955.

"A doctor before that had told me I had asthma, and he told me to quit smoking, but I didn't — and I'd been smoking 1½ to two packs of cigarettes a day for almost 40 years.

Quit Smoking
"But when a doctor diagnosed it as emphysema in 1958, he told me it would continue to get worse, and possibly take me away, unless I quit smoking.

"As long as I'm at my desk, I'm okay. But it cuts my breath if I overexert myself.

"Yes, every morning right after I get up, I take those medicines you squirt down your throat — decongestants or bronchodilators as they're called. They make kind of a mist. And I try to blow all the air out of my lungs. I can't get started in the morning until I do that.

"But, during the rest of the day, I don't have any great deal of difficulty."

Says Elizabeth Hayes, 57, Minneapolis, Minn., who had to give up her job as a grocery clerk because of her illness, and is an outpatient at Mt. Sinai Hospital in that city:

"Some days are worse than others. Sometimes, I have all I can do to walk to the bathroom from the bedroom. I go to prepare something to eat, and then I'm too exhausted to eat it.

"Shortness of breath? Sometimes you feel almost as though you're going to suffocate, especially during hot spells, or again when it's very cold. And you get so doggone nervous — and the more nervous you get, the worse you breathe. I try not to panic because when you do, there again your breathing gets worse."

ODD JOBS for the gentle sex are held down by Jane Ann Betts, left, and Dr. Karen Group, right. Jane is a framewoman with the New York Telephone Co., the first woman on the job since World War I. She checks out customer complaints about telephone service, determining if the trouble is in the company's equipment, and making repairs. Dr. Group of St. Louis, Mo., is one of only 14 women among some 4,000 federal meat inspectors stationed in packing plants throughout the country to ensure consumers get clean, wholesome meat. Six years of university work in veterinary medicine prepared her for the job.

TV Slogan Dots Buffalo as Dems Open Convention

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Blackened eyes, bands, ladders and banners brightened this Lake Erie city today as the Democrats officially opened their 1966 state nominating convention.

The black eyes were the product of grease paint applied by supporters of Howard Samuels, who held they would rather "fight" for their candidate's nomination than "switch" to someone else.

The bands sprang from various sections of New York State and ranged from killed pipers to tiny tots blowing bugles. They all had one thing in common — they were loud.

The badges were sported by just about everyone in sight and they became a sort of a status symbol — a symbol, incidentally, not too difficult to come by. They designated everything from delegates to newsmen and created some rather outlandish color combinations.

The banners were draped in and on the massive Memorial Auditorium here as the convention got underway officially. In the traditional red, white and blue, they stood in sharp contrast to some spectrum-colored posters advancing the hopes of various candidates.

Tuesday night at convention headquarters in the Statler Hilton Hotel served as sort of a preview of things to come as first diagnosed — and I quit smoking, although I had been real short of breath since about 1955.

"A doctor before that had told me I had asthma, and he told me to quit smoking, but I didn't — and I'd been smoking 1½ to two packs of cigarettes a day for almost 40 years.

Duties to Keep Lindsay Away From Convention

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "The press of his duties" has kept New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay from attending the Republican state convention, says Deputy Mayor Robert Price.

At the same time, Price denies suggestions that Lindsay's absence underscored coolness between the Republican mayor and Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Price told The Associated Press Tuesday that he saw no signs of hostility and noted that Lindsay had endorsed the governor's bid for a third term in office.

Relations between Lindsay and Rockefeller became strained during the 1966 legislative session over possible solutions to New York City's fiscal plight.

Lindsay was unable to obtain from the Legislature all the taxing powers he said were necessary to maintain the city's fiscal balance.

Price said he saw no signs that Lindsay would appear at the convention, which has drawn the presence of virtually every top-level Republican politician in New York State.

Dies of Injuries

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Lida Wilcox, 74, of Forestville, died Tuesday night in Our Lady of Victory Hospital here of injuries suffered Aug. 26 when her automobile struck a tree near Forestville.

Her address was 37 Center St. Deposits of alabaster occur mainly in Italy, England and France.

9 Connecticut Pupils Are Testing New Teaching Plan

By ANGELO NATALE
GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — An educational revolution is under way at the Whitby School in this wealthy Fairfield County community—a revolution that so far involves only nine pupils.

These nine, and the 200 high schoolers that eventually will be enrolled in Whitby, are the first in their age group in the United States to be taught under the Montessori system.

Stresses Activity
Named after Maria Montessori, the Italian educator who devised the system, the method emphasizes free physical activity and informal and individual instruction.

Whitby is a private, coeducational school administered by Roman Catholic laymen. It has used the Montessori method since it started in 1958 with 18 pupils. There are 200 pupils at the school now, all but the nine high schoolers enrolled in what is equivalent to the elementary level.

Last September, without fanfare, Whitby pushed its program to the high school freshman level when the nine pupils crossed from the lower grades. "Whitby is more than a school," says John P. Blessington, the school's headmaster, "it is a movement." Whitby "has become a leader in the national reappraisal of the science of learning."

Get Encouragement
Blessington, 33, says many educational leaders throughout the country encouraged Whitby to move forward into the higher grades.

The plan calls for establishment of a 10th-grade level this fall, bringing the high school enrollment to about 40. The 11th and 12th grades will be added in the next two years, providing a full high school curriculum to about 200 students by 1968.

The Montessori method leaves pupils more or less on their own, although under the guidance of teachers who prepare the educational environment, direct activity and function as authority.

At Whitby, the high school pupil works with a one-month

"contract" outlined by the teacher, telling what the pupil is expected to accomplish in a variety of subjects.

Must Work Out
It is up to the pupil to work things out for himself. He can neglect chemistry, for example, for a few weeks to concentrate on another subject. But he is expected to finish what has been outlined for him in chemistry by the end of the month.

The study of literature has its "required reading" list as in other high schools but the system is flexible.

One of the high-schoolers at Whitby, going through the library shelves, picked out a novel by Graham Greene, liked it and then read everything he could find by that author.

"He got on a Graham Greene kick, and we let him do that," Blessington said. "We changed his literature 'contract' accordingly. We figured that we'd let him come to grips with one author and then get him going on another."

Experience Level
The curriculum at Whitby is similar to those of other college preparatory schools. What is new is what is called the "subtle yet strong emphasis upon the student's experience level—and honest respect for each pupil's natural pace of working."

The attitude at Whitby is that the focus of education must always be on the individual.

Blessington is confident that the graduates of Whitby will retain more of what they have learned than graduates of other high schools because they will have done more of what they want to do.

"What they want to do" appears to be a major cause of criticism of the Montessori method by those who feel there is a loss of discipline.

Blessington already has experienced what is considered a problem in some other high schools. One of the Whitby high-schoolers plays with a small band and has let his hair grow long.

"If I get troubles from parents," Blessington told the boy, "then I'll tell you to cut your hair. But right now I don't care if you trip over it."

No Harm to Ask

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A housewife who accused her husband of beating her asked a city judge for permission to shoot him.

"Is it against the law for me to get a shotgun and shoot him between the eyes?" asked the woman, testifying Tuesday in city court.

"It's against the law," replied Judge Andrew J. Doyle, "but it seems to be the accepted custom these days for women to shoot their husbands."

Doyle dismissed an assault charge against the husband, who claimed he whipped his wife in self-defense after she threw rocks at him.

Fine Po'keepsie Youth $850 on 4 Violations

An 18-year-old Poughkeepsie youth was fined a total of $850 or 315 days in the Dutchess County jail recently after pleading guilty before Justice of the Peace Erven E. Meddaugh, Town of LaGrange, to four motor vehicle violations.

Melvin Cross, of Taylor Avenue, was cited by Deputy Sheriffs Gerald Caplan and Henry Small and Town of LaGrange Constable Joseph Freer on charges of driving while his license was revoked, having improper registration plates, driving without insurance, and failure to have his car inspected.

Judge Meddaugh noted that Cross had appeared before him four times within 12 months, and his recent appearance was the third for driving while his license was suspended and the second for driving a car with no insurance.

The youth could have been sentenced to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine on one charge alone.

Mayor on Traffic Duty
HODGENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — There was an unfamiliar face on traffic duty at a downtown intersection.

It was Mayor C.P. Thurman, who stepped in after what he termed a policy dispute left this south central Kentucky town of 2,000 without police.

Mrs. Mary D. Gould

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Mary D. Gould, the wife of a former Associated Press executive editor and the mother of a newspaper editor, is dead at 71.

Mrs. Gould died Tuesday at Arnot-Ogden Hospital here of complications following surgery to remove a lung cancer.

Her husband, Alan J. Gould, retired from the AP in January 1963. He had worked in New York City. Their son, Alan Gould Jr., is editor of the Oneonta Star, a morning newspaper.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Raymond Holmes, of North Hollywood, Calif., two sisters and a brother, all of Elmira.

89 Cases Called In County Court Calendar Tuesday

A criminal calendar of 89 cases was called in County Court Tuesday afternoon by Assistant District Attorneys Robert A. MacKinnon and Francis Vogt and several cases were marked for the ready calendar by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

These cases will go on the ready calendar and will be taken up in the order in which they are reached.

Heading the calendar was a second degree assault charge against Arthur Wesley Holmes, 28, of 693 Broadway, who stands charged with an assault on two men at a Washington Avenue tavern last September 18. Francis Martocci, counsel for Holmes, said the defense would be ready for trial next week. Holmes was one of three men involved in the matter and was returned from California to face the charge.

Second on the calendar was the first degree murder charge against Raymond G. Rickard Jr., 37, Brooklyn seaman, who is charged with the death of 2½-year-old Victor Rossiello at Lake Katrine in November 1964. Rickard was returned from Madras, India, last June where he was picked up on arrival of the ship on which he was employed. Francis Martocci and Joseph Saccoman appear by assignment for defendant and indicated they would be ready for trial, subject to motions to be made in relation to the indictment.

Foresee Delay

Due to such motions the case probably will not be moved for trial for some time. The prosecution has given notice that the district attorney's office intends to offer on trial certain oral statements after indictment. This may cause defense counsel to seek a hearing on the admissibility of the statements.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rossiello, 37, mother of the dead boy has been indicted for perjury in connection with her appearance before the grand jury during the investigation and is now being held in the Ulster County jail as a material witness. Harry Gold appears as her counsel.

Following the call of the criminal calendar Judge Mino adjourned court until Thursday.

Killed by Shock

FISHERS, N.Y. (AP)—Robert R. Schuttes Jr., 20, of nearby Victor, was killed by an electric shock in this hamlet southeast of Rochester today after he went to the aid of two persons whose automobile had struck a utility pole and severed power lines.

Schuttes had been in an automobile behind the car carrying two young men when that vehicle struck the pole, the Ontario County Sheriff's office said.

Schuttes tried to cut a guy wire to the pole, deputies said, and was killed instantly when the fire came in contact with the power lines.

Newburgh Bus Gets Temporary Approval

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission granted temporary authority today to the Newburgh Beacon Bus Corp. to operate buses between the town of Fishkill and Peekskill.

The new route, under a certificate valid until next February 27, will be an extension of the company's present Newburgh-East Fishkill run.

The commission also said it would hold a hearing Sept. 29 at the Newburgh City Hall on whether to grant permanent rights for the route.

do pennies make a difference in your food bill?

You bet they do.
And we should know.
We built our business by saving pennies for generations of folks like you.

For instance, take our policy on multiple-priced items.

If an item is priced 3 for 25¢, the price for one is obviously 9¢.

But what happens if you want two?

Do you pay 2 times 9¢ or 18¢?

Not at A&P.

We sell it at 2 for 17¢.

That's the fair way—the A&P way.

in food budgeting, pennies make a difference.

We watch them for you and for us.

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

Questions and Answers on Federal Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I just received a letter from the IRS service center about my return. Can the local office here help me with it?

A—Yes. However if the letter is sent from the service center, the requested information should be sent back to the service center unless other instructions are given.

Q—When you call or visit your local IRS office, have the letter handy for reference purposes.

Q—An adoption agency just placed a child in our home. Can we claim her as a dependent now for withholding purposes?

A—You can if the child was placed in your home by an authorized adoption agency for legal adoption by you.

Mileage Allowance

Q—I had a part-time selling job last summer that required the use of a car. I didn't get an auto allowance. Are my mileage costs deductible?

A—Except for commuting expenses, the costs of business use of your automobile are deductible. You may deduct the actual expense, or if you prefer, a standard rate of 10¢ a mile for the first 15,000 miles and 7¢ a mile thereafter. Related parking fees may also be deducted.

Q—I spend more than $50 every three months for a maid but I don't always use the same woman. Do I have to pay Social Security tax for my household help?

A—You are liable for the tax only when you pay one person $50 or more cash wages in a calendar quarter. If you spend $50 in any quarter but split between several persons, you are not liable for the tax.

Malverne Hewing To Guidelines On Integration

MALVERNE, N.Y. (AP) — Schools in this Long Island community open today hewing to state-imposed guidelines on racial balance that the president of the school board calls "distasteful and ineffective."

State Education Commissioner James E. Allen ordered the board last week to integrate elementary school classes, a step resisted by much of the community.

The school board has indicated it will follow Allen's directive on ending racial imbalance. But in a letter to Allen, its president, Charles W. Reardon, said compliance "will further aggravate the problem it was designed to solve."

"Best indications at the present moment," Reardon said, "are not only that (the) plan will not create racial balance, but will substantially increase the number of Negroes in grades 1-5."

Only the community's elementary schools were involved. Junior and senior high schools are already centralized. The school board rejected last week an offer of $51,200 from the State Education Department to implement the integration order. It had requested $770,000 to carry out the plan.

Q—One of your tax assistance people helped me prepare my return and now it is being audited. If you question the accuracy of my return why don't you check with the person who helped prepare it?

A—The function of our tax assistance personnel is to explain the requirements of the law and assist in filing a complete return. They make no attempt to verify the information submitted and have no way of knowing whether what the taxpayers tell them about income, deductions, and exemptions is complete and accurate.

Q—My daughter is getting married next month. Does that mean I will lose her exemption?

May Be Claimed
A—You will if she files a joint return with her husband. However, if her husband files a separate return you may claim an exemption for her if she otherwise qualifies as your dependent. In that case, you, not her husband, get the exemption.

Q—My son earned $600 this summer. Do we lose our exemption for him?

A—Not necessarily. If he is under 19 or a full-time student, he may earn over $600 and you may still claim the exemption if he otherwise qualifies as your dependent.

If any tax has been withheld from his wages he must file a return to obtain a refund. In any event, he must file a return when his gross income is $600 or more. In filing such a return he also claims his own exemption.

Q—My father died and I am the beneficiary of his life insurance. Will this be taxable to me?

A—Death benefits from life, accident and health policies are not considered taxable income.

Q—I just received a letter asking me to mail in my medical expense records. Instead of that can I bring them in so that I can explain them?

A—Yes. Call or write the office that requested the information so that an appointment may be arranged.

AGs to Meet

STOWE, Vt. (AP)—A three-day conference of attorneys general from 13 states, including New York State, and two territories will convene here Sept. 20.

John P. Connors, Vermont attorney general, said Tuesday in Montpelier that the states represented would include the New England states and Pennsylvania.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 7, the 250th day of 1966. There are 115 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1778, Daniel Boone was successful in the defense of Boonesborough, Ky., against the Indians.

On this date: In 1822, Brazil declared its independence from Portugal. In 1940, during the Battle of

In 1944, Gov. Thomas Dewey of New York opened his campaign for the presidency.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman received the surrender papers signed by the Japanese aboard the battleship Missouri.

Ten years ago—Associate Justice Sherman Minton, appointed to the Supreme Court by President Truman in 1949, announced his retirement because of ill health.

Five years ago—Entertainer Jack Paar filmed a television show in Berlin along the Communist wall. The film brought congressional protests that the use of U.S. soldiers in it might create a serious incident at a time of crisis in Berlin.

One year ago—The United States halted its arms aid to both India and Pakistan as hostilities between those two countries mounted.

Walking Tour Is Scheduled for Sept. 15th

Interested residents and visitors will be given an opportunity to view colonial Kingston on a walking tour which is scheduled for September 15 starting at 2 p. m. from the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Reynolds Sr. as a representative of the Ulster County Historical Society, has been the hostess greeting walking tour visitors as they entered the home of Mrs. Allan L. Hanstein on Crown Street. She has a record of being on hand each time the house was open during the past two years as well as for the 1966 season.

Miss Riccobono, a member of the Senate House staff conducts the visitors through this museum. The two ladies agree that comments from tourists indicate the value this historic area has for the community. A glance through the Junior League register lists many visitors from areas outside of Ulster County. Besides the students from India, so far this year, visitors have come from Wisconsin, Florida, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Washington, D. C. and Connecticut. The guides have conducted approximately 600 people on tours since the beginning of April, 1966.

The Senate House register lists not only people from almost all the Western European countries, including, Norway, Denmark and Italy, as well as Western Hemisphere visitors from the West Indies, Panama and Haiti, and from South Africa, India and Japan.

Some visitors have described the Senate House as the finest historical site they have visited, and Miss Riccobono notes that a number of people who have enjoyed Williamsburg's attractions find the Senate House of special value because it is the original building and not a restoration. The Senate House is the final building reached on the walking tour which covers the former stockade area of Kingston, and includes stops at the Old Dutch Church, the D.A.R. Chapter House, and two private homes.

Doing The Right Thing

HOSTESS: ARE YOUR PARTIES
A SMASHING SUCCESS

Many of us are not sure just exactly what is the right thing to do when you are entertaining. Test your score as a charming hostess by giving yourself five points for each question to which you answer "yes." Sixty to 75 rates you as an expert entertainer; 40 to 45 as average, and if you score below 40, run right to the nearest bookstore for a copy of "Etiquette."

1. When you have a dinner party, do you try to invite couples who are not all in the same "group"?

2. Do you urge your guests to start eating before everyone is served?

3. Do you and your husband go to the door to greet every guest?

4. Do you offer coffee-free coffee as well as regular coffee after dinner?

5. When you hire a waitress for the evening, do you insist that she serve the lady guest of honor first?

6. Do you refuse to allow your guests to wash the dishes?

7. When you invite friends by telephone, do you tell them what sort of an occasion it will be so that they will know how formally to dress?

8. If you serve cocktails, do you always have soft drinks available?

9. If you have no help, do you plan your menu so that most of the meal can be prepared in advance?

10. When giving a buffet dinner, do you have a seat available for every guest?

11. Whether you smoke or not, do you have plenty of ash trays and cigarettes in evidence?

12. Do you make sure that none of your guests is ever left without someone to talk to?

13. Do you urge your guests to stay a little longer when they mention that it's getting late?

14. Do you have plenty of guest towels, fresh soap, and tissues in the bathroom that the guests will use?

15. Do you empty ash trays and remove used glasses from the living room (or see that a maid does it) while your guests are dining?

How and when to introduce people puzzles many. The booklet "Introductions" gives helpful information on this subject. To get a copy, send a dime and a stamped self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Teacher Returns From Trip Abroad

Mrs. Jack Clair of the On-teora School System has returned from a 20,000 mile tour in the Far East.

First visiting Hong Kong, she reports that a highlight of the summer was an extra tour at the invitation of a member of the Hong Kong Christian Welfare and Relief Council to the projects in Kowloon and Kwun Tong. Feeding kitchens, vocational training centers, family clinics are helping thousands of Red Chinese refugees on the road to self support and better health.

Among the special centers visited were those of Lutheran World Service where all kinds of crafts are being taught; of the Christian Family Service Center where clinics were held for the ill and in need; and of a Lutheran seminary from which teachers were going out to instruct the children from the resettlement estates. The experience was very inspiring.

Next, Mrs. Clair visited and made an extensive tour in Japan, using buses, ships, private car and the famous "bullet" train where average speed is a fabulous 125 miles an hour. Of great interest to her were the remarkable Zen Buddhist gardens in Kyoto. She was fortunate in having conversation with one of the Buddhist priests at Daisenin garden. At Kyoto, also, she heard the ancient gagaku court music and collected an excerpt to bring home. She concluded her trip in Japan with a cruise on the Inland Sea, and visited Takamatsu in the Island of Shikoku.

Returning to the United States aboard the President Roosevelt, she had a short visit in Hawaii.

Arlene Buchbinder, Mark I. Druss Are Wed

MRS. MARK I. DRUSS (Photo Workshop)

Miss Arlene Buchbinder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Buchbinder of 265 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y., wed Mark I. Druss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe R. Druss of 267 Parkside Drive, Roslyn Heights, N. Y., on Sunday, Sept. 4, 1966 at a 12 o'clock ceremony in Congregation Ahavath Israel, 72 Wurts Street, Kingston.

It was a double ring wedding ceremony with Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman officiating. Miss Christine Nazzari, flautist of Woodstock, played selections by Bach and Debussy.

The synagogue was decorated with baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, pompons and carnations and family pews were marked with bouquets of white, pink and orchid pompons tied with white satin ribbon.

Escorted and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie in directoire style with embroidered rosepoint Alencon lace. A matching pillow held the three tiered shoulder length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Bonnie Greenfield of Cherry Hill, N. J., college classmate of the bride, served as maid of honor in a light pink cocktail length dress with circular bouquet of pink and orchid pompons.

Miss Harriet Fleischer of Hurleyville, N. Y., college classmate of the bride, and Miss Sarah Druss of Roslyn Heights, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids. They wore light pink cocktail length dresses similar to that of the maid of honor and carried circular bouquets of orchid pompons.

Paul Grebinger of Chicago, Ill., college friend of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Stuart Buchbinder of Kingston, brother of the bride; and Michael Weinberger of New York, cousin of the bridegroom.

A wedding reception was given in the gardens and Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

The bride is a honor graduate of Kingston High School and is now a senior at Barnard College, Columbia University, New York, where she is majoring in English. Mr. Druss is an alumnus of Roslyn High School, Roslyn, N. Y., and Columbia College of Columbia University, New York. He will begin graduate study in Anthropology at Columbia this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Druss will reside in New York.

MRS. JOHN A. MILLER (Photo Workshop)

Edith Heckeroth Weds John Andrew Miller

Miss Edith Emma May Heckeroth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Heckeroth of Woodstock, exchanged marriage vows with John Andrew Miller of Kingston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Kingston and nephew of Mrs. W. Fitzgerald of Kingston. The wedding ceremony took place at 3 p. m. on Saturday, Aug. 27, in St. Peter's Church, this city, with the Rev. Francis P. Brennan, administrator, officiating.

Miss Nan Goldrick was organist for the occasion. Vases of white gladioli decorated the church and the family pews were marked with white satin ribbon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory peau de soie gown styled with a cirelet neckline, long tapered lace sleeves, empire fitted bodice and A-line floor length skirt. Her bouffant illusion veil was shirred to a crown headpiece and she carried a cascade of white butterfly roses centered with white orchids.

Miss Judith Hines of Hurley Heights, N. Y., served as maid of honor in an emerald green linen princess floor length A-lined gown. She also wore a short chapel length veil and carried a cascade of miniature carnations with baby's breath.

The flower girl was Miss Edan Heckeroth, the bride's niece. She wore a maize silk organza floor length gown with matching headpiece and carried a nosegay of yellow miniature carnations with baby's breath.

Phillip Feeney of Kingston, a cousin, served as best man, while Thomas Davitt Jr., and Edward Burns, cousins, served as ushers.

A reception was given at the Kirkland Dutch Rathskeller in Kingston for 80 guests.

The bride was graduated from Onteora Central School and Russell Sage College in Troy. She taught English and Social Studies at the Academy of St. Ursula in Kingston.

Mr. Miller is an alumnus of Kingston High School and attended Lafayette University in Easton, Pa. He was employed by Rotron Manufacturing Company in Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside in Easton, Pa., when they return from a wedding trip to Nantucket, Cape Cod.

International Violin Festival in New York

An international violin festival, the first of its kind, will be held at the Rembert Wurplitzer, Inc. showrooms, 120 West 42nd Street, on Oct. 2, from 2 to 6 p. m. and Oct. 3-4-5 from 2 to 8 p. m. Public admission will be free.

Coming to New York at the invitation of Mrs. Lee Wurplitzer Roth, the firm's president, will be 30 of the world's leading dealers to display their prized instruments and bows, some of which have never been seen in the United States.

The festival will also mark the first time that approximately 100 of the most beautiful violins, violas, cellos and bows found anywhere, dating from the early 1600's and estimated to be worth more than $1,000,000, will be housed under one roof. For some of the dealers, it will be their first visit to America.

Extraordinary security measures will be taken to protect the Wurplitzer showrooms, with Pinkerton guards being on 24-hour duty during the exhibition.

The festival's purpose is to make it possible for the public to view these notable instruments, none of which, however, will be for sale.

MIKE FERRARO

Is 1st Kingston Player Since '26 To Make Majors

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Mike Ferraro made his major league debut with the New York Yankees last night and became the first Kingston player since Bud Culleton, who hurled for Pittsburgh in 1926, to have his name in a major league box score.

Though he reported to the club only 90 minutes before game time, Ferraro was in the starting lineup against Baltimore at Municipal Stadium. Batting second, Mike grounded out to second, short and third and fled to right in four trips to the dish. Baltimore won, 4-1.

Works Cutoff Play

He had five chances in the field, made one error on a wide toss, in attempting to throw Frank Robinson out on a slow roller and was the middle man in a perfectly executed cutoff play in the second inning, nailing a runner at second base.

Ferraro was the only one of five rookies recently recalled by the Yankees to see action. He wore uniform No. 43, used recently by Roger Repoz, who was traded to Kansas City.

After Horace Clarke had made an out to begin the game, Ferraro batted. He ran the count to 3 and 2, fouled off several pitches and then fled to right field.

He grounded hard to third his next trip with Brooks Robinson short hopping the ball and making a nice throw to first. An error by shortstop Lou Aparicio enabled Mike to reach base the third time. In the eighth inning, he hit the first pitch to second and was thrown out.

In addition to successfully working the cutoff throw to perfection, Ferraro fielded a ground ball with the bases loaded and had two other assists on grounders. He narrowly missed getting Aparicio on another cutoff attempt in the eighth, the ball and the runner arriving at the same time.

The only run scored by the Yankees was a roundtripper by Tom Tresh in the opening inning.

The Orioles, heading for the American League pennant, tallied three times off loser Jim Bouton and added another run off relief hurler Steve Hamilton.

"I had no idea I would be starting until Manager Houk took me into his office and told me," said the 22-year-old Ferraro. "I thought I'd have some time to get something to eat. I hadn't eaten since 10 o'clock."

Ferraro, in his fifth season of professional baseball, finished the year with Toledo of the International League with a .248 batting average. He had 129 hits in 525 trips. Included were 16 doubles, four triples, nine home runs and 50 runs-batted-in.

His fielding was outstanding. He was charged with only 15 errors in 141 games. Toledo closed with a 71-75 record and a sixth place finish. The Hens missed the first division by three games and were 11 games from the top.

Will See Much Action

Houk said that Ferraro, along with Bobby Murcer, John Miller, Stan Bahnsen, who reported yesterday plus Mike Hegan and Bill Henry, who will greet the team in Boston, would play a lot for the rest of the season.

"It doesn't matter to me whether we finish last or seventh," said Houk. He considers this group of newcomers the best since Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek were brought up in the 1950s.

The Yanks and Baltimore conclude their 1966 duels to-night, 8 o'clock but the game will be on radio only. The next televised Yankee contest will be Friday night from Boston. The club returns home next Tuesday night to oppose the Washington Senators.

Many birds were lost in the terrible weather and only 11 of 17 lofts reported.

The winners: Harry Scales, Saugerties, 843.063; George D'Angelo, Port Ewen, 840.012; John Buckman, Kingston, 839.656; Frank D'Angelo, New Paltz, 839.571; Cecilia Buckman, Kingston, 835.204; Frank Knox, LaGrangeville, 832.718; Ed Carvelho, Highland, 828.568; Lee Benhenke, Highland, 808.472.

Sponsored by the American Power Boat Assn., the Saturday and Sunday races will be on national television. Some of the best drivers in the country are expected to compete.

Stopski, who finished third in the recent Hudson River Marathon, will drive a J-17 16-foot Glastron, powered by a 110 Mercury. Millett will attempt to break the world's kilo record for E Class in his F-31 13-foot Allison, powered by a 50 Mercury.

Will Manage Next Year

Westrum Wants Cullen Help, Long Ball Hitting Outfielder

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wes Westrum has been rehired as manager of the New York Mets and the guess is that his salary is in the $40,000 neighborhood. What Westrum needs now is some players good enough to draw similar salaries.

Of the current Mets—the best in the five-year history of the club—it's likely that only three players make as much or more than the manager: third baseman Ken Boyer and pitchers Bob Shaw and Bob Friend.

But that could change. "I would have to say that pitching would be our biggest need—and a long-ball hitting outfielder," Westrum said Tuesday at the press conference announcing his re-hiring.

"Strength in the bullpen might help us win 10 or 12 more games next year."

Since both commodities are wanted by only 19 other teams, it would take a major trade to bring the Mets what they want. But there is tradeable material on the club—promising young pitchers such as Tug McGraw and Dick Selma and second baseman Ron Hunt, whose

Almost Traded Hunt

The Mets supposedly were close to trading Hunt for outfielder Jimmie Hall of Minnesota Twins last year, and probably would be willing to part with the aggressive second baseman if a major trade could be pulled off.

As for what's available, the Mets are known to covet outfielder Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers, might be willing to take a shot at Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale if he becomes available and might even look at one of the guys from the other ball park in town—Roger Maris of the Yankees.

Westrum, meanwhile, has to be happy with what he has. And what he has is the Met record for being the manager re-signed at the earliest date and the most victories in Met history, 60 following Tuesday night's 3-2 victory over Cincinnati.

He also was the manager of record as the Mets became the best drawing National League club in New York history, bringing their 1966 attendance total to 1,815,049 in the game with the Reds and surpassing the record set by the 1947 Brooklyn Dodgers.

But that doesn't satisfy Casey Stengel, Westrum's predecessor. What Casey wants is eighth place, 2 1/2 games away and held by Houston—the league's oldest expansion club.

"I talked to Casey on the phone and he congratulated me," Westrum said. "He also told me 'stay close to Houston, beat 'em and you've really done a job.'"

Angels' Oldies Give KC Rookies Baseball Lesson

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas City wanted to give some schooling to a bunch of youngsters, but the lessons were given by a couple of California old-timers.

The Athletics used a record number of players Tuesday, many of them just having completed their minor-league seasons. But timely hits by veterans Joe Adcock and Jimmy Piersall won the game for California, 4-3.

Adcock tripled in two runs and Piersall doubled across two more, all in the first inning, and that was all the Angels needed.

Starter Fred Newman gave up the three Kansas City runs in the second, but Clyde Wright and Bob Lee shut out the A's the rest of the way.

In all, the Athletics used 24 players, tying an American League record for a nine-inning game. The major-league mark is 25.

In other American League games, Baltimore beat New York 4-1, Detroit crushed Washington 8-2, Cleveland bumped Boston 6-2 and Minnesota edged Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings.

Lindblad Routed

Paul Lindblad, just a rookie himself, was the victim of the Adcock-Piersall outburst. In the two-thirds of an inning he worked, he gave up three hits, four runs and three bases on balls. Five other Kansas City pitchers saw action before the night was through.

Dave Johnson, normally thought of as a glove man in the midst of the potent Baltimore attack, continued his hitting ways with three hits and two runs batted in.

In Monday's doubleheader, Johnson had five hits. Dave McNally stopped the Yanks on just six hits. Boog Powell took over the RBI leadership from teammate Frank Robinson at 103.

Denny McLain continued his return to form after his post-All Star Game slump and picked up his 18th victory. Don Wert and Bill Freehan each drove in three runs, both hitting two-run homers.

McLain gave up 11 hits, but had a shutout going into the seventh inning before singles by Don Lock and Paul Blair and an infield out broke it up. Gil

Merger Denied By Hockey Teams

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Harry Glickman, president of the Portland Buckaroos, says reports of a merger between the Western Hockey League and the American Hockey League are "ill-founded and presumptuous."

"While most of the members of the AHL are probably in favor of a merger, I seriously doubt if this is true in the WHL," said Glickman. "Portland is not interested in merging with the AHL as it is presently constituted."

The two leagues played an interlocking schedule last year. When the season ended the AHL asked for continuation of the interlocking schedule and suggested a merger.

It was rejected by the WHL at its annual meeting in San Diego. A meeting between the two leagues, however, is scheduled for Sept. 20 in Chicago.

The AHL is comprised of nine cities: Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y.; Springfield, Mass.; Providence, R.I.; Pittsburgh and Hershey, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Cleveland and Quebec.

The WHL has seven members: Portland; Seattle; Victoria and Vancouver, B.C.; San Francisco; Los Angeles, and San Diego.

Golf Winner

BOLTON, Ont. (AP) — Bill Jones of Cleveland shot a two-under-par 70 Tuesday to win the fifth annual Negro Veterans Golf Tournament.

Hodges argued so heatedly with umpire Al Salerno at a close play at first base that he was thrown out of a game for the first time in his baseball career.

Gary Bell threw a three-hitter at Boston and Max Alvis and Chico Salmon each drove in two runs for Cleveland. It was Bell's 14th victory against 11 losses.

Rocky Colavito broke out of a batting slump with his 29th homer and George Scott hit his 27th for the Sox.

Harmon Killebrew homered twice for the Twins, the second time in the ninth tying the game, but the winning blow came from Rich Rollins, a run-scoring single in the 12th. It drove in Jimmie Hall who had walked and moved to second when Cesar Tovar also drew a pass.

White Sox reliever Hoyt Wilhelm was the loser and reliever Bill Pleis took the decision. Don Buford homered for the Sox.

NL Roundup

Sadecki Tops LA, 6-0, Pirates Bow to Atlanta

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Herman Franks drew an ace from the bottom of the deck but Harry Walker's best cards all were trumped.

Ray Sadecki and Joe Torre divided the pot.

The stakes were high Tuesday night when Sadecki backed up Franks with a three-hit shutout, leading San Francisco to a 6-0 victory over Los Angeles, and Torre crossed up Walker with a three-run homer, powering Atlanta past Pittsburgh 4-1.

The Giants' victory boosted them into a virtual tie for second place with the Dodgers, 1 1/2 games behind the National League-leading Pirates.

The Braves reached the .500 mark for the first time since May 9 and tied Cincinnati for sixth place, 12 games off the pace.

Hurls 3-Hitter

Franks, the Giants' manager, cashed his bet on Sadecki when the 25-year-old left-hander scattered three singles and recorded his first victory in two months. Sadecki had been a major disappointment to the Giants since they acquired him in an early-season trade that sent Orlando Cepeda to St. Louis. He went into Tuesday night's game with a 5.00 earned run average and only three complete games in 18 starts.

"Control has been his main trouble," catcher Tom Haller said. "But this time he had good control of his fast ball and his curve. He made only a couple of mistakes."

Asked when he had last pitched a shutout, Sadecki replied: "That's a good question. You'll have to look it up in an old record book."

Walker, the Pirates' pilot, gambled against Torre in the eighth inning of a 1-1 deadlock. Felipe Alou drew a lead-off walk against southpaw Bob Veale and Denis Menke sacrificed. Walker then ordered an intentional walk to Hank Aaron, bringing Torre to the plate.

"I know Torre's a tough out," Walker said afterward, "but I was hoping for the double play."

Instead, Torre cleared the left field wall for his 33rd homer. In other NL games, New York edged Cincinnati 3-2, Houston nipped St. Louis 4-3 and Chicago upended Philadelphia 7-2.

Sadecki pitched perfect ball against the Dodgers for four innings, did not issue a walk and was never in trouble while improving his season record to 5-7.

Belt Don Drysdale

The Giants raked loser Don Drysdale and two successors for 15 hits, including a two-run homer by Willie Mays and a three-run double by Tito Fuentes.

After Torre's three-run shot sent Atlanta ahead, Walker lost another strategy match in the Pirates' eighth.

Dennis Ribant retired the first 15 batters he faced and finished with a six-hitter as the Mets held off Cincinnati, breaking a five-game losing string.

Marr Scores Ace At Twaalfskill

Joseph Marr of Bearsville paced the par-3 No. 6 hole at The Twaalfskill Club with a perfect 6-iron shot.

Witnesses to Marr's first hole in one were Irving Eyles, George Swart and James L. Quinn, members of the foursome.

Dr. Robert McLaughlin of Saugerties planted his flag 25 feet from the 19th hole to win the Labor Day Flag Day competition. Runner-up was James L. Quinn, who finished 150 yards from the 19th hole.

Other results: Dr. C. J. Goffredi and Charles H. Gaffney, in 18th cup; George Svirsky, five inches from 18th cup; Richard Overbagh, 14 inches from 18th cup; James Gilpatrick, 20 feet from 18th cup; Irving Eyles, 33 feet from 18th cup; Edward Minashin, 24 yards from 18th cup; and Justice Louis G. Bruhn, 36 yards from 18th cup.

Smith-Little Capture Tennis Doubles Title

Dick Smith, who defeated Dick Little for the Ulster County men's tennis singles title Labor Day, teamed with him Tuesday to add the doubles championship to his laurels.

Smith and Little had too much experience and finesse for the Kingston High school tandem of Frank Kruszenski and Bruce Sumbler, polishing them off in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2 in Tuesday's finals.

Smith, who succeeded Pete Zech as singles champion, has a chance to achieve the hat trick with Mary Fowler in the mixed doubles which are now in progress.

Kitty Fowler is the women's singles champion for 1966.

Slim Pickens at New Paltz for Claybird Shoot

Slim Pickens, widely known motion picture and TV actor, will compete in the Winchester National Claybird tournament, Thursday at the Mohonk Valley Winchester Club at New Paltz.

Shooters from across the country will compete for more than $120,000 in prizes. The competition will be held between 7 p. m. and 10 p. m. Thirty seven clubs will be represented.

Pickens, a part time rodeo performer when not acting in TV and movies, is reputed to possess near professional skill as a shooter.

Sept. 17 Deadline For '46 Gridders On Reservations

Saturday, Sept. 17 is the deadline for members of the 1946 football team at Kingston High to make reservations for the 20-year reunion of the club.

The reunion will be held Saturday, Sept. 24, 8 p. m. at Williams Lake. Vince DeLuca is chairman of the event and more than 25 members of the team, which captured DUSO honors that season, will attend.

Bill Burke, who began the most successful football coaching career in the DUSO League in 1946, will be a guest of honor at the dinner.

Other committee members are Joe Esposito, Mike Rienzo, Lou Fuoco, Bill Kitsos and Bill Blume.

Doyle Bird Wins Rain Drenched 200-Mile Race

A bird owned by Charles Doyle of Quarryville averaged 925.400 yards per minute to win Kingston-Ulster Racing Pigeon's Club's rain drenched race from Aberdeen, Maryland.

The winning time was slow by normal standards, but the Doyle bird turned in a remarkable performance in the 200-mile event. It won by 60 yards over its closest competitor, a bird owned by Tony Andrzejewski of New Paltz.

Many birds were lost in the terrible weather and only 11 of 17 lofts reported.

Swimmers who successfully passed their Junior Life Saving tests were: Dennis Roth, Susan Dillon, Dale Elmendorf, Jessica Maloney, Scott Findholt, Mike Weber, Dick Baltz, Kevin Conner, Debbie Hulsar.

Certificates and badges were presented to Jack Baltz and Howard Halpern for passing their Senior Life Saving test. Miss Beth Boyd and Matthew Feigenbaum, instructors and pool directors, presented the pins and certificates.

Other Highlights

Dr. William Fitzgerald, chairman and coordinator of pool activities, was master of ceremonies at the dinner. He introduced members of the pool committee. Prior to the prize presentations, Miss Boyd presented the coveted outstanding sportsman award to Miss Debbie Riftenbary.

An added highlight of the program was the presentation of humorous awards to parents who had assisted the team in its efforts this year. Debbie Riftenbary and Jack Baltz made presentations to Dr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. William Helmrich, Mrs. Harold Baltz, Mrs. Fred Weber and Mrs. George C. Riftenbary. Miss Riftenbary and Jack Baltz presented gifts on behalf of the children to Miss Boyd and Feigenbaum. The program concluded with showing of movies of the swimming team in action by Dr. George C. Riftenbary.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The untimely passing of James (Jase) Cullum must recall for G. Warren Kias and old line Kingston High alumni two contrasting epics during Kias' early years as football coach and athletic director at KHS.

Kias has never forgotten his first great team in 1929. It was not too many years after he had come out of the Illinois prairies to take over the mantle handed down by Bill O'Leary.

That 1929 squad with Ed Minasian, Bill Scully and other Maroon immortals had come up to the climactic Thanksgiving Day contest with Newburgh Academy, unbeaten, united and unscathed. But a safety in the early going triggered the underdog NFA eleven to a startling 8-0 upset.

It was different for Kias on a bright, sunny Nov. 30 afternoon in 1933. It was so warm that many spectators shed their topcoats. And so was the Kingston team.

● Up to the Big One:

This Maroon eleven had come up to the championship test with only one blemish on its record, a 6-0 loss to Mont Pleasant of Schenectady which had one of its all-time great athletes, Corky Stanton, going for it that day.

The 1933 team didn't falter. It took command early in the game and behind the expert signal calling of Jase Cullum rolled over a mighty Newburgh eleven, 13-6, to give Kias his first DUSO football pennant. The score will never begin to tell the physical beating Kingston gave the Goldbacks on that distant day.

Cullum scored both TDs for Kingston, plunging over from the 1 at the end of a long drive sparked by Mac Tiano's 40 yard gallop at midfield. He circled 8 yards around end for the second touchdown. That day he was the big hero, with Tiano and Art Davis not far behind.

● Beat All Three, 13-6:

Kingston defeated all three of its DUSO opponents—Port Jervis, Middletown and Newburgh — by identical 13-6 scores that year. Poughkeepsie was then outside the conference.

There is no doubt that the 1933 team was one of Kingston High's mightiest. And there are those who persist in rating it Kias' finest. Jase Cullum was one of its brightest heroes.

Eddie Burgevin, a scintillating scaback missed most of the 1933 game because of illness but his sub, Arthur Davis Jr., the current Surrogate of Ulster County, played so brilliantly that Eddie was all but forgotten, until he made a token appearance late in the contest.

● Among the Greatest: 6

The starting lineup that day had Captain Tony DeBrosky and Cowboy Evory at ends; Emile Noco and Frank Every, tackles; Zip Zacheo and Mush Levy, guards and Harold (Beans) Baltz at center. Cullum, Davis, Tiano and Ray (Pop) Saehloff rounded out the backfield.

Phil Fertel, Morgan Ryan, Ken Saunders, Bill VanDerzee and Burgevin were called on for reserve duty.

Coach Kias is no longer on the scene, having retired a few years ago. He had his share of Maroon greats in baseball, football, basketball and track. Oh, yes, they coached them all in those days. But Jase Cullum and that 1933 team will always remain one of the treasured memories of his long athletic career.

In paying eloquent tribute to Cullum, he said it plainly and movingly, "He was great, one of the greatest in our time." And so he was.

Rochester Debates Series With Richmond

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Rochester Red Wings, fresh off their first International League pennant in 13 years, open a best-of-five playoff series tonight against the Richmond Braves.

The Wings clinched the crown on the last day of the season Monday, topping by one game Toronto and Columbus who finished in a second place tie.

The Leafs and the Jets also begin their best-of-five series tonight, meeting at Toronto.

Richmond finished fourth, eight games off the pace.

Rare Finishes

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Racing rarities: A dead heat in the first race and a dead heat in the second race at Shenandoah Downs Tuesday night produced four daily doubles.

Midnight and Shot Put got to the wire together in the first race and Dandy Dip and Faye's Doll hit the wire together in the second.

The quadruple daily doubles, $5, paid $4.80, $4, $27, 10-3, $5.20 and 10-4 $35.20.

Schmeling Says Mildenerger Could Surprise

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Max Schmeling, recalling his 1936 surprise knockout victory over Joe Louis, cautions against writing off Karl Mildenerger in Saturday night's heavyweight title bout against Cassius Clay in Frankfurt.

"Naturally, Clay is the favorite, but Mildenerger definitely has a chance," said Schmeling, the only German ever to wear the heavyweight crown.

Schmeling, who will be 61 Sept. 28, said his first encounter with Louis was the best example of how an underdog can upset "the greatest."

"In 1936, when I already was well past my prime, I was brought to the United States more or less as cannon fodder for the then super boxer—Joe Louis. At that time they also did not give me the breath of a chance."

Schmeling, who had held the title from 1930 to 1932, knocked out Louis in the 12th round of that non-title fight. Two years later, after Louis had won the crown from James J. Braddock, Schmeling was dropped by the Brown Bomber in the first round.

Louis and Schmeling held a reunion Tuesday in Hamburg. Both plan to watch the Clay-Mildenerger bout.

Mildenerger, 28, the European heavyweight champion, is the first German challenger since Schmeling.

Schmeling said he had never seen Clay fight in person, but had seen telecasts of some of his matches.

Clay, Schmeling said, is very fast and packs a good punch. "But," he added, "his speed can also be his weak point, since he can't hit as hard when he's moving as when he's poised. The odds for this match are 10 to 1 for Clay. That's nonsense of course, because, if a sport were all that cut and dried, the two wouldn't need to box."

Schmeling, whose professional career spanned 24 years, now operates three soft drink plants in North Germany and lives at Hollenstedt near Hamburg with his wife, the former actress Anny Ondra.

Urge Purchase Of Israel Bonds

The chairmen of the Greater Kingston Israel Bond Program, Herman G. Rafalowsky and Alfred D. Ronder, have kicked off this year's campaign with a letter to the community urging the purchase of the bonds. The letter, dated Sept. 6, is as follows:

CHAI—is the Hebrew word for life and 18—and 1966 is the year in which Israel celebrates CHAI marking 18 years of independence and freedom for the 2,500,000 Jews in Israel. We, the Jewish community of the Kingston area and our many friends, have helped strengthen that independence through the mighty arm of the Israel Bond investment program. Over $800,000 in Israel Bond dollars have been utilized since 1951 for investment purposes — thus making history in a way that has never been matched. Our Israel Bond investments brought life to the barren Negev Desert, as new cities such as Dimona, B'sor, Arad spring up. Our cooperation has meant a new life for more than 1,300,000 immigrants who have found a home in Israel. Israel needs our continued cooperation! To increase her factory and agricultural output, to close her trade gap; to build roads, harbors, a merchant marine, vast housing for her people. Whenever you purchase a Bond you are assured a 160 per cent return on your investment. To date over $140,000,000 in matured Bonds have been repaid. What better investment can we make in terms of human satisfaction? Please purchase a Bond now as our campaign gets under way. If your Savings Bond is maturing we urge you to reinvest it now. Make your Bond your bond with Israel. We await your reply on the enclosed card. In this year of CHAI may we extend best wishes for the New Year to you and your family. South Carolina was the first state to secede from the Union, on Dec. 20, 1860.

California First

Pentagon Reports N. Y. Second in Prime Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — California, New York and Texas — in that order — got the biggest slices of defense prime contract spending in fiscal 1966, Pentagon figures showed today. California, heavy in aerospace and electronics industries, received $5.8 billion in prime contract awards — 18.3 per cent of the $35.7 billion spent for military goods or services in the fiscal year that ended last June 30.

N.Y. Up $570 Million

New York's share in defense spending totaled $2.8 billion and Texas followed with $2.29 billion. The Texas total was up $850 million over the previous year, due mainly to contract awards for helicopters ticketed for Viet Nam. California's total climbed an estimated $650 million and New York contracts rose by $570 million. All 50 states and the District of Columbia got a chunk of the money put out by the Defense Department — biggest spender of federal funds — but aside from the top three only seven other states received over $1 billion in contracts. These were: Connecticut with $2.05 billion, Pennsylvania with $1.67 billion, Ohio $1.59 billion, Massachusetts $1.33 billion, Missouri $1.11 billion, New Jersey $1.09 billion and Indiana $1.07 billion. Overall, prime contract awards surged upward by nearly $10 billion from fiscal 1965's $26.63 billion. Civil functions of the Army Corps of Engineers for flood control and rivers and harbors work were not included in the tabulation. The Pentagon said the breakdown provides no direct indication of where the actual production work was done. For the most part, it said, state figures indicate where a product was finally processed and assembled or where construction or service was performed.

Albert Still Resting

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic Leader Carl Albert remained hospitalized today at the Bethesda Medical Center where he was taken after suffering what doctors called a minor coronary occlusion without complications. The 58-year-old Oklahoma Democrat was ordered to rest for several weeks. He was stricken with chest pains Tuesday while working at his desk in the Capitol.

Rusk Still Bedded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk remained in Walter Reed Army Medical Center today for treatment of the gripe. Rusk was admitted to the hospital Tuesday.

Poultry Team From Area Going To Kansas City

The Orange - Sullivan - Ulster Group of Future Farmers of America was highly successful at the State Exposition at Syracuse on September 2.

The county group FFA teams won the state poultry judging contest. They scored seventh in the vegetable crops contest. They were recognized for ninth place in the field and forage crops contest and in the dairy cattle showmanship contest.

As a result of the first place win, the poultry judging team will receive an all expense paid trip to the National FFA poultry judging contest which will be held at Kansas City, Mo. This contest will be held in conjunction with the national FFA convention in October.

The county group FFA poultry judging team was led to victory by Edward Hotchkins from Tri-Valley Central School who placed first in the state contest. Other team members included Maurice Hill from Tri-Valley, Charles Garrison who placed eighth and Henry Hanevich both from Wallkill Central School. The team coach was Richard Strangeway, teacher of agriculture at Tri-Valley Central School.

The County Group FFA vegetable crops team placed seventh at the State Exposition. This team consisted of John Thompson, who placed 12th, and Bruce Weeder of Minisink Valley Central School, and James Beckley of Warwick Central School.

The County Group FFA field and forage crops team placed ninth at the State Exposition. Team members included Neal Vriesema of Minisink Valley, Bruce McCord of Wallkill Central and Karel Coddington and Zeno Wicks of Rondout Valley Central School.

Viet Nam Veterans Upstage Beauties In Atlantic City

By PHILIP WECHSLER

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Fifty glamorous young women, upstaged by six battle-hardened veterans wounded in Viet Nam, returned to the spotlight today for the opening competition of the Miss America Pageant.

The girls join the 11 judges at a luncheon to show their poise and charm. Tonight they display their form in the swimsuit, evening gown and talent divisions.

The new Miss America will be crowned at midnight Saturday.

Tuesday night the crowds' cheers and hearts were with the servicemen.

The men — three Marines and three soldiers — served as grand marshals in the pageant's annual festival of floats in a spectacular floodlit parade along the boardwalk.

As the six smiling veterans led the parade in white convertible, the more than 100,000 spectators repeatedly gave them ovations.

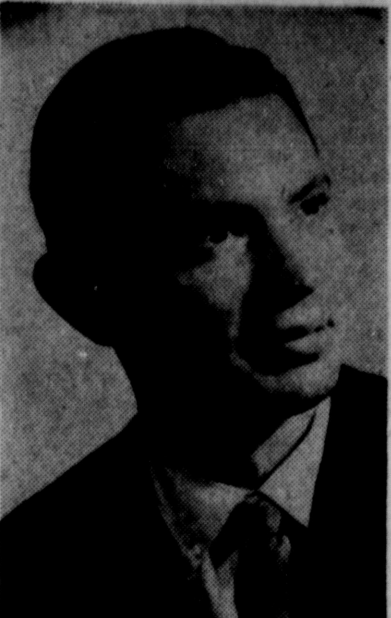

"I just can't get over all these good people clapping for me," said Staff Sgt. Oliver Fugere, 33, of Raymond, N.H., who was shot in the back by the Viet Cong last January.

A month before he was wounded, Sgt. Fugere was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for killing about 40 Viet Cong in a fierce battle at the Michelin rubber plantation.

The servicemen also had another treat. They met with the Miss America contestants earlier. "That wasn't hard to take," said a smiling Marine Lance Cpl. William Turian, 27, of Philadelphia.

The Prince Albert named for Queen Victoria's husband.

DeGaulle Draws Less Than 1,000 In Tahiti Visit

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) —

Less than 1,000 French and Tahitians turned out Tuesday night to greet President Charles de Gaulle on his arrival in Tahiti.

The reception was friendly but restrained, and local authorities expressed disappointment.

There were no cheers and little clapping as De Gaulle ended his brief arrival speech at Faatua airport with "Vive la France!"

Chiefs brought from other islands by French warships shook hands with the president, then turned abruptly away. Along the route to the residence of the governor of French Polynesia, French flags flew over Chinese stores but not over Tahitian homes.

However, there was no demonstration of hostility, although many Tahitians have publicly expressed a desire for independence.

De Gaulle came from New Caledonia on a 19-day round-the-world tour.

Probe Requested On Fire Cause Of Ulster House

An investigation to determine the cause of a fire that damaged the interior of a vacant frame house next to Wallkill Co. on Albany Avenue, has been requested by Fire Chief Hilary Schultz of Ulster House Co. 5.

The fire was discovered shortly after 9:50 a. m. and firemen responded with three pieces of apparatus. Chief Schultz said two 1½-inch lines were pressed into service to check the spread of the flames.

According to the chief, the fire originated in a second floor bedroom closet and burned through walls and flooring. The fire damage was confined mostly to the second floor, and water damage was reported on the main floor of the unoccupied house. The residence is owned by Harold Lewis, 999 Central Avenue, Woodmere, L. I.

Chief Schultz said he has asked the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation, Kingston substation, to investigate. He termed the fire incendiary.

The firemen returned to their station at 11:40 a. m.

Educator Still Conservatives' Governor Choice

Adams, a 51-year-old dean at Roberts Wesleyan College near Rochester, appeared certain of nomination by the 397 delegates attending the four-year-old party's convention.

He arrived on the eve of the one-day convention Tuesday from a Canadian lakeside hideaway, unaware of the sudden uprising by Donald H. Serrell, 60, a Garden City lawyer, and John J. O'Leary, 34, a mechanical engineer from Plainville.

The last-minute entries threw a hitch into the selection of the rest of the slate.

"Our choice for lieutenant governor depends on the nominee for governor," a party leader said.

"If we nominate an Upstater for governor, we want a New York City man who can wage a strong campaign to run for lieutenant governor."

At the same time, final drafting of the party's platform was delayed as scores of delegates went before the platform committee Tuesday to offer more ideas for the party's campaign.

The platform will hammer away, however, at state spending in general and the year-old sales tax, the medical-aid program and school — aid plans in particular.

The party aims to draw votes from Republican Gov. Rockefeller and outpoll the rival splinter organization, the Liberal Party.

Serrell appeared determined to carry his battle for the nomination to the delegates as he accused the party of "tired and boss — controlled leadership, a charge that Republicans and Democrats hurl at each other freely."

Last year, Serrell ran unsuccessfully for state senator on the Conservative ticket.

O'Leary appeared less certain Tuesday about battling for the nomination before the assembled convention today. "I'm going to meet the delegates," he said Tuesday night, "and see what I can do."

Party leaders, headed by Chairman Daniel Mahoney of New York City, selected Adams last week in New York City but made no announcement.

N. Y. State Fair Lists Wallkill Girl as Winner

A 15-year-old Wallkill High School sophomore captured top honors at the New York State Exposition in Syracuse in the senior heifer calves division.

Winning with her 11-month-old calf was Karen Lee Maier, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maier Jr. of RD 3, Wallkill. Maier is a dairy farmer.

Karen has been in the 4-H program for about four years, according to her parents. Her brother Gary, 14, is also a 4-H'er.

Karen's calf is the current Ulster County Champion in its class, having won the honors at the recent Ulster County Fair.

Gary, who did not compete in the state exposition this year, was second in the county with a senior yearling and third with a junior heifer.

Dutchess County made a good showing in the state competition with Donald Briggs of Millbrook walking off with three top prizes. He won with a 2-year-old heifer and had the reserve senior champion and reserve grand champion in the Holstein class.

In the county groups, Dutchess placed second behind Cayuga County in the senior herds division.

HEAT SHEET of lightweight steel foil is the newest thing in heating units. Consisting of paper-thin steel foil laminated to epoxy film and etched to form the electrical circuit displayed here, the 2-by-4-foot units are attached to the backs of steel panels designed to fit into standard frames of a suspended ceiling. The sheets already are being used as the sole heat sources for several schools in New Hampshire.

Olive Vols Will Hold Tournament

The five companies of the Olive Fire Department will participate in their fifth annual tournament Sunday. The inspection of equipment will take place at 1 p. m. with the competitive contests at 2 p. m. These activities will be held on the Town of Olive Recreation Field in West Shokan.

There will be five events in the competition and the winner of each event will receive a cup. The winning company of the tournament will receive the larger trophy for one year. The first company to win this three years will retain it. As one company now has its name on twice, there certainly will be spirited action in trying to get this for the third year.

The judges for the events will be Raymond Morris, Ulster County fire coordinator, New Paltz; Chief Richard McMullen, Marlboro Fire Dept.; and Ex-Chief Oscar Lambert, president of Ulster County Fire Chiefs Association, Esopus.

Refreshments will be available at the field. However those who care to bring a picnic lunch as there is a picnic grove at the field with tables available. The public is invited. All firemen throughout the county are especially invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.
